Medical Costs Tax Provision May Be Eased

House Unanimously Accepts C.C.F. Move to Drop Floor

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP)—In a rare and perhaps significant move, the Commons today accepted a C.C.F.-sponsored proposal that the federal government consider giving income-tax payers a better break in deducting medical expenses.

This was interpreted as a possible hint that Finance Minister Abbott plans to do that when he brings down his 1952-53 budget April 8.

The proposal came in the form of a private resolution by Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre) asking that the government consider abolishing the existing 4-per-cent floor on the amount of medical bills a taxpayer may deduct for income tax purposes.

James Sinclair (L.-Coast Capilano), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, expressed some objections but promised that the idea would be given consideration.

Later, surprisingly, the motion was approved unanimously. The effect of today's development is that the Commons went officially and unanimously on record—presumably with the government's agreement—as requesting the administration to consider abolition of the floor on medical deductions.

Mr. Knowles did not call for abandonment of the existing ceilings — $750 for single persons, $1,000 for married and $250 for each dependent—on the amount of medical expenses that may be deducted from net income for tax purposes. Those ceilings might, he suggested, be reviewed.

But Mr. Sinclair, with another possible hint of budgetary changes, conceded that "perhaps the time has come to raise" the ceilings in view of increased medical costs and fees, increased hospital charges and increased cost of drugs.

GENERAL APPROVAL

The half-dozen members who spoke in the two-hour debate expressed general approval of the motion. Some went further and proposed that eye glasses and drugs also be considered for tax exemption.

Mr. Knowles suggested it is unfair to have a floor on medical-expense deductions when there is none for charitable donations.

Persons faced with uncontrolable medical expenses should get the same relief as those who made contributions to accepted charities and were able to deduct them from net income, he said.

He also urged that drugs, additional household help hired during illness and other such expenses be allowed as deductions.

Veteran-Foe Seeks Parley With Malan

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 26 (Reuters). — Group Capt. "Sailor" Malan, relentless campaigner against Prime Minister Daniel Malan's race-segregation policy, today led a squad of his "Torch Commandos" into Capetown to ask for a parley with Malan.

The Second World War ace and the chief lieutenants of his veterans' organization arrived by plane from Durban despite Malan's refusal yesterday to see them.

He has since ignored their second request for an interview to discuss his decision to override a Supreme Court ruling last week declaring a key piece of racial legislation to be invalid.

"Sailor" Malan, whose group has been organizing protest demonstrations throughout South Africa, said the delegation wants to tell the prime minister that if he continues with his present policy the responsibility—"should anything happen"—would be on his head.

Victoria Flier Dies in Crash

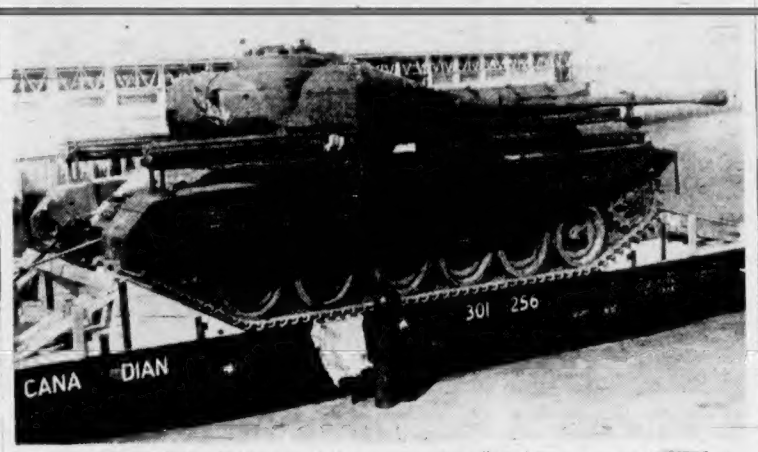
Lieut. Chester F. Thew, 40, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Thew, 2236 Epworth Street, Victoria, was killed yesterday when a huge B-47 Stratojet bomber crashed in New Mexico.

Lieut. Thew, whose widow and son live in Albuquerque, N.M., was one of four airmen to die when the pencil-slim craft faltered just after taking off on a routine training flight and crashed on a runway at Kirtland Air Force base.

Three of the crew died in the wreckage and the fourth died two hours after a crash crew pulled them from the burning plane.

The plane was attached to the 4925th Test Group (Atomic) of the Special Weapons Command at Kirkland.

Tanks for Canadian Army



One of three 57-ton British Centurion tanks destined for army training centres across Canada is shown here in Montreal on its arrival by rail from Halifax. The tanks, adopted as standard equipment for the Canadian Army, measure nine feet, 10 inches high; 28 feet, three inches long and 11 feet, 10 inches wide.—(CP photo.)

War Pension Increase Due

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP).—The biggest overhaul of war veterans'—allowances—the so-called burnt-out pensions—since the war is due for parliamentary study shortly.

Veterans Minister Lapointe gave notice on the Commons order paper today that he has a bill ready which will make at least four changes in the current set-up:

Increase the allowance rates which now have maximums of $40 and $70 a month for single and married recipients, respectively. It is understood the new ceilings will be about $55 and $80.

Increase permissible income. Single recipients now are allowed a total income of $610, including the $480 allowance, before the allowance is cut. The married maximum is $1,000. Both totals will go up.

Assist veterans "who may be employable to some degree." This looks like a fairly-important departure to avoid penalizing veterans who can pick up seasonal jobs but still need help otherwise.

Boost the pay of the six members of the allowances board. The chairman, Col. F. J. G. Garneau, makes $9,000, the other five members $7,500.

The allowances are paid to aged and indigent overseas veterans and widows of veterans. The age deadline is 60 but the allowances are paid to younger people on the basis of need.

Roughly, 40,000 Canadians benefit from them, including an increasing number of Second World War veterans.

Embargo Hits Dawson's Meat Supplies

DAWSON, Y.T., March 26 (CP)—The British Columbia embargo on livestock is affecting this city in Canada's far north. Officials said today that the city has meat supplies on hand for about one month for the 1,000 residents in the area.

Supplies of beef, lamb and veal which are to last until opening of navigation on the Yukon River, have been ordered but must come 350 miles over a winter road which daily is reaching a point of impassability because of spring thaws.

No pork will reach Dawson at least until sometime in June, officials said, because of the embargo B.C. has placed on Alberta livestock.

If meat supplies cannot be brought in by truck they must be flown in from Whitehorse, Y.T., at an additional freight charge of six cents a pound. Present prices already are high. Round steak sells at $1.30 a pound, veal steak at $150, frankfurters at 95 cents and liver at $1.15 a pound.

Dawson residents feel no alarm at present but they realize that the possible increase in prices may add such a burden to slim budgets that the purchase of fresh meat may be prohibitive.

Italy Calmer Over Trieste

ROME, March 26 (AP).—Violent student demonstrations demanding the return of Trieste free territory to Italy simmered down late today. Italy's major cities, for the first time this week, returned to a state of calm.

Riotous student mobs peppered with hard-faced Fascist and Communist provocateurs were broken up after morning clashes with police in Naples and Rome.

In Milan, a roaring mob of 20,000 students demonstrated before the British consulate with such signs as "get out of Italy, Tommies and Yanks." It dispersed after two hours.

Milan veterans have scheduled a massive city-wide demonstration for 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Church Groups Would Amend Liquor Query

VANCOUVER, March 26 (CP).—The United and Baptist churches have asked that a second question be added to the proposed liquor plebiscite to be conducted at the forthcoming provincial election.

The second question would ask whether voters are in favor of establishing a government commission to study the subject and report back to the government before any changes are made.

Indications are that the plebiscite will ask the public whether they favor the sale of liquor by the glass in licensed premises.

The Vancouver presbytery of the United Church of Canada in a resolution drawn up Tuesday, expressed belief that the plebiscite was being presented to a "public which is largely uninformed about the complexities of the issues involved."

A convention of Baptist churches in B.C. recently suggested this question to the attorney-general:

"Are you in favor of a government commission to inquire into the probable effect of increased liquor outlets in B.C. and to report its findings to the government in 1953, before any changes are made in the administration of the Liquor Act?"

No Commissioner To Be Appointed By Water Board

Present Employees To Fill Davis' Post

The Greater Victoria Water Board yesterday decided not to fill the vacancy left by ex-commissioner Ralph Davis but to create a two-man commission from the present staff.

The board approved the appointment of clerk-treasurer I. D. Lachlan and engineering superintendent Ronald Upward as joint commissioners, with the latter as chief.

Both have been with the water district since its inception in January, 1949. Their salaries will be raised from the present $4,900 a year to $5,500.

The move will save the board about $6,300 a year in salaries.

SALARY TRIMMED

Former commissioner Davis resigned after the board in January had trimmed his salary from about $8,500 a year to $7,000 on a motion from Mayor Claude Harrison and then re-set it later at $7,500. He said that his reasons for resignation were "personal."

The move was made yesterday following the suggestion of chairman Reeve Joseph Casey of Saanich.

He said he felt that Mr. Lachlan could handle the financial end of the water board administration, as he had done in the past, and Mr. Upward the engineering part. The latter was in charge of all field work for the district.

The question arose when Mayor Harrison suggested advertising for a new commissioner. He said there were "any number of engineers" who would take the job at $7,000 a year.

MAYOR AGREED

He later went along with the board in the decision to appoint the present staff members.

In accepting the position, Mr. Lachlan thanked the board and stated that he had always had the interests of the water district "very much at heart." He asked that if he proved not to be suitable, he be allowed to revert to his former position of clerk-treasurer.

Mr. Upward said he would like it understood that this is the first year such an arrangement could have been made, and added that he would not like to see any discredit given to Mr. Davis.

"We can handle it this year because things will be a little quieter," he said.

It was agreed that in the event of any unforeseen capital projects on the watershed, an engineer may have to be hired to work under Mr. Upward on a temporary basis.

Bitter Words Hurled at Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 26 (INS).—The United States told Russia today to "put up or shut up" on germ warfare charges against America after Soviet delegate Jacob Malik rejected a U.N. offer of a Red Cross investigation.

U.S. representative Benjamin Cohen, shaking with emotion, denounced Malik's earlier allegations that the U.S. is preparing a global war of deadly poison gas, germs and atomic weapons.

Interim S.P.C.A. Group Quits After Brief Tenure

The recently appointed S.P.C.A. executive committee headed by Lieut.-Cmdr. R. Whyte last night resigned its "emergency tenure of office."

At a meeting last night attended by the full 10-man committee, the following statement was issued:

"The officers and the executive committee of the S.P.C.A. feel that their emergency tenure of office must terminate due to the refusal of the opposing faction under Mr. Evans to compromise or co-operate in restoring harmony to the society."

Cmdr. Whyte denied, as reported yesterday morning, that he had signed any agreement covering society operations until a special meeting can be called by the parent body of the S.P.C.A. with offices in Vancouver.

DENIES SIGNING

The report said that an agreement was signed by Cmdr. Whyte and Paul Green of the opposing faction leaving the running of the shelter to Inspector Ben Maggs until the dispute could be settled. Cmdr. Whyte said that he did not sign any agreement, and could not have signed until his committee had considered the matter.

Cmdr. Whyte was selected as president by the 10 directors left behind at a recent meeting after other executive members left following the resignation of the then-president Stewart Evans.

Paul Green, vice-president under Mr. Evans, was the other claimant to the presidency.

David Ricardo, provincial secretary, has visited Victoria twice to plan a meeting to iron out the difficulties.

Advice Given By De Gaulle

PARIS, March 26 (AP).—Gen. Charles De Gaulle told a group of United States editors today that the west should act as if a Soviet attack was an immediate danger.

"Then if it happens, the west will be better prepared," said De Gaulle. "If it doesn't happen, then the Lord be praised."

The leader of the Rassemblement du Peuple Francais, largest single party in the French parliament, received the editors at a press conference.

Work on Island Highway To Begin in Six Weeks

Work will begin in six weeks on the new Island Highway outlet from Victoria, the public works department reported yesterday.

The new outlet will be 10.2 miles, of which 4.6 miles will be new construction.

New construction will begin from Douglas Street and Regina Avenue. The road will follow through Battleford Avenue and Portage Roads and parallel the Canadian National Railways tracks north of Portage Inlet.

The Highway will intersect Helmcken Road north of Vickery, and also Burnside Road near Craigflower Creek.

An underpass will be built at the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway tracks, leading the road to join the present highway near Thetis Lake Road.

Remainder of the route will generally follow the present highway from Six Mile House to near Langford. This section is to be widened and straightened, beginning next year.

Overall width of the new outlet will be 44 feet, with 24 feet paved. While construction will begin about June on the first 4.6 miles, paving will not be completed until 1953, it was announced.

Alberta to Defer Embargo Action

EDMONTON, March 26 (CP)—Premier E. C. Manning said tonight that Alberta will take no further action against the British Columbia livestock ban unless it is forced to "challenge the validity of the discriminatory and restrictive ban presently in effect."

In a prepared statement issued following a meeting of the full cabinet tonight, Mr. Manning said "the continued imposition of B.C.'s restrictive ban on livestock shipments from this province with the exception of the Edmonton area, is unwarranted and unnecessary."

He said it represents an "unconstitutional interference with free and normal inter-provincial trade."

"B.C. is a neighbor province with whom Alberta always has enjoyed the best of relations. One does not quarrel with the good neighbor if it possibly can be avoided and for that reason we have done our best to persuade the B.C. government to remedy the present intolerable situation and not to force Alberta into legal action to protect the constitutional rights of our livestock producers," he said.

Bail Jumper Flying Back

A Victoria man who jumped $1,000 bail has been arrested in Prince Rupert and is to appear in city police court Friday morning, city police disclosed last night.

Emile Calve, 44, of 301 Simcoe Street, failed to appear in city police court on Feb. 28 for a preliminary hearing on a charge of obtaining $75 from Woodward's Limited by false pretenses.

Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered a bench warrant for his arrest and the R.C.M.P. were notified.

Police in Prince Rupert phoned detective inspector Charles Webb last Friday and informed him they had the wanted man in custody.

Early yesterday morning detective Norman Bath left Patricia Bay airport by air to bring back the man. He is expected to return today. Cost of the fares for the trip will amount to about $138.

T.L.C. Presents Brief at Ottawa

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP).—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada asked the government today for measures to combat unemployment and advance labor's interest in the social and economic fields.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, replying to the annual legislative submission of the Congress, made no specific commitment on any of the 28 points advanced.

He indicated there will be no immediate implementation on such Congress demands as a national health-insurance scheme, higher pensions at a lower age, subsidized low rental housing, a Canadian Bill of Rights and federal aid to primary and secondary education.

The prime minister gave no reply to other recommendations which included:

Immediate and substantial use of the government's "on-the-shelf" program of public works to take up the slack in employment.

Cutting-off of immigration in the winter unemployment season and generally tailoring immigration to employment opportunities.

Tighter restrictions on the "dumping" of cheap foreign goods, claimed by unions to have created unemployment in the needle and textile trades.

Reimposition of price control. The Congress claimed other government measures pointed at inflation—such as credit restrictions—had resulted in unemployment.

War Termed Anti-Gangster

TORONTO, March 26 (CP)—Defense Minister Brooke Claxton said tonight the action taken by the United Nations in Korea is in the truest sense police action to stop international gangsterism.

Canadian and other U.N. forces fighting there, he said, are "international police charged by the free nations of the world with the job of stopping these armed gangsters."

"Just like city police, they have set back gangsterism in Korea and everywhere else. Had the step not been taken, gangsterism would have advanced in Korea and everywhere else."

The minister made the statement in a speech prepared for delivery to a Canadian Red Cross Society dinner given for a team of eight women Red Cross welfare workers soon to leave for Japan. The team, he said, would carry on the fine Red Cross work of the Second World War in seeing to the comfort and welfare of the Canadian forces.

John Hart In Hospital

John Hart, former premier of B.C., was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday on the order of his physician, Dr. George Hall.

The nature of Mr. Hart's illness was not disclosed, but hospital authorities reported his condition as satisfactory late last night.

Princess Mary Bought for Barge

The better days of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Princess Mary have ended.

The C.P.R. has announced that the Mary, retired last November, has been sold to Union Steamships Ltd.

"It is understood the old vessel will be stripped of its superstructure and the hull remodelled for use as a scow," the former owners said. The sale price was not disclosed.

The Mary was well known to coast travelers and Gulf Island residents for 42 years of service in B.C. coast waters.

Preserved from the vessel is its whistle. It was presented to the Powell River Co. on March. 14 by the master of Ss. Princess Elaine, which has taken over Vancouver-Westview operations of the retired passenger ship.

The whistle has been installed in the plant of the company.

The Princess Mary was constructed at Paisley, Scotland, in 1910. It became one of the few ships on the Pacific Coast to be cut in two and have extra length inserted.

The ship had sleeping accommodation for 200 persons and day space for 600.

Four Queried In Big Theft

BOSTON, March 26 (INS).—Four men were being questioned tonight by F.B.I., state and Danvers police in an effort to uncover a clue in the $681,000 armored truck robbery in Danvers Square yesterday.

Meanwhile, two legislators filed a resolve for the state to post a $15,000 reward for information that will lead to the solution of the largest cash armored truck robbery in the country.

Police Captain John H. Cloran, of Dudley St., led a squad of officers to the north end and arrested a 39-year-old resident of that district and a 31-year-old Peabody man found with him.

Earlier the F.B.I. had taken two East Boston men into custody for questioning.

Cougar Hound Dies in Battle

NANAIMO, March 26—A famous cougar hound has been slain in the line of duty. Scout, five years old, one of the best in the pack of James Dewar, chief predatory hunter at Nanaimo, is dead after a vicious battle with a giant cougar at Evans Bay, Read Island.

In the same fight, Girlie, another of Dewar's hounds was badly mauled but will live.

Mr. Dewar asked all persons reporting cougar to state whether or not the beasts have been in battle with domestic or wild dogs. If so he will take six or seven of his hounds to the chase . . . this occasion he took only three. A third, Bounce, having been mauled before, stayed out of the fight.

Just previously the cougar had killed a collie. Mr. Dewar flew up on Monday and soon was on the chase.

As the cougar was scented, Scout went into the battle and for a time was fighting alone till Girlie came in. Scout quickly fell to the claws of the cougar and Girlie took the brunt till the animal was driven off. It escaped but Dewar, heartbroken over loss of Scout, will go back.

Scout was raised on the game department farm here and comes from the famous Lee stock of Arizona. He was half fox hound and half bloodhound.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Almost above my head is a fluorescent fixture—one of four which span this office with parallel strips of hard, white light.

Whoever called them "daylight illumination" must have lived most of his life in a cave. They are cold, mechanical-looking objects drawn in straight lines—as far removed from the round warm light of the sun as anyone could imagine. They are more in keeping with a Buck Rogers space ship than with the outdoors.

I am told that if they fall on your head and shatter they will poison you with some deadly chemical. (Honeycomb strips of metal beneath the cylindrical globes luckily prevent this.)

Artificial lighting? Devices like these seem to be the true symbols of all that is most artificial in our lives. But how far removed are they, after all, from the earth, and the mountains and the rain?

* * *

"Artificial" is a misleading word. The dictionary says it means, for one thing "produced or modified by human skill or labor." It has come to be commonly accepted as something different in quality from the works of nature.

However, the fact is that human beings, with their clever, contriving little monkey-minds, are among the works of nature themselves. Whatever things people devise are simply offshoots of the natural universe, built up like larger-scale Rube Goldberg contraptions from elements and forces that have existed since the dawn of time. Men create nothing. They rearrange things that are already there.

The fluorescent light above my head shines by electricity, a force that the wise men can describe but not explain. They can only squabble about whether it should be privately or publicly owned, and deliver learned arguments full of mysterious arithmetic, proving that it should be more expensive.

You can't wrap electricity in a bundle and tie it with string. Can the people own it? Anyone can make it their own, as anyone can make a rainbow their own, if they have a mind to.

* * *

Before that fluorescent light could glow, mountains had to rise, the sun had to shine and lift water vapor to the sky, rain had to fall, and rivers had to tumble down to the sea for centuries before men came along with their machines.

Financial wizards disputed about holding companies, rate of return to investors, and depreciation on capital equipment. Engineers came along with slide rules and spoke of acre-feet of water, kilowatts and horsepower, politely ignoring the nature-lovers who protested the drowning of land under new lakes and the slaughter of trees, fish and animals.

Brawny, cursing men with picks and shovels, spanners and welding torches pieced together dams and dynamos, reared ugly pylons to the sky, spun out wires through untraveled woods to the city. Inspectors looked their work over.

Stories appeared in the newspapers, important-looking officials bustled about, and finally a politician stood up like a minor god, repeated some platitudes, and pushed the ceremonial switch that sent the water from the mountains rushing through the man-made turbines and the electricity pulsing through the wires.

A number of people inconvenienced themselves a great deal to turn on that fluorescent light above my head. And after all that trouble, the wretched thing hurts my eyes.

Greater Victoria As One City Urged

Victoria and surrounding municipalities should amalgamate, then the city should seek a private charter, Arthur J. Patton, city solicitor, told the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night.

"We could then get more grants from the federal government and cut down administration costs," he said. But he also remarked that "surrounding municipalities don't want anything to do with us."

The city solicitor explained some of the legal aspects of civic affairs in the third of a series of three lectures.

One aspect of municipal government "is not democratic," Mr. Patton told Jaycees. That is the system under which school boards present estimates to municipal councils, he said.

"The school board can come along and ask us for a million dollars, and we haven't a word to say about it," Mr. Patton said.

TREMENDOUS SUM

"The trustees just sit back and say 'Go ahead, boys, and when you get the money, hand it over,'" he said.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission also came in for some sniping by the city solicitor.

"They have a tremendous sum saved up," he said. "There has been no unemployment in Canada for some years, and we want some of that money back."

Unlike Vancouver, which has a private charter, Victoria does not own its streets, he told the chamber. Ownership is vested in the Crown.

Rights and duties of municipal governments were also dealt with by the speaker, who explained disposition of money raised in by-laws, and the legal dangers of handling such funds.

BARRED FROM OFFICE

"If money is borrowed by a municipal council, and voted to a use other than stated in the by-law, the councillors who voted for the other use are liable for replacement of the sum personally," he said. "They are also barred from office for five years."

Municipal government is the people's first contact with any form of government, he pointed out, and was the first natural form of government in the world.

He got a laugh from Jaycees when he described the municipal government as being like a family. "The father is the policy maker," he said. "And the mother is the administrator—she does what he says."

Financial status of Victoria was discussed briefly by Mr. Patton. He also dealt with disposition of tax sale money.

TAX SALE MONEY

"It would cost us $2,000,000 to build enough houses to relieve the housing situation," he said.

Speaking on tax sale money, he said the money must be returned to general funds or used to reduce the municipal debt. "We put a lot of tax sale money into the Memorial Arena," he said.

A Jaycee who had followed the solicitor through the debentures, estimates, percentage on loans, and other legal tangles, grasped the last remark easily. "That's a sinking fund," he said.

Ousting of McGuire Fuel for C.C.L. Feud

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP). — The Canadian Congress of Labor's internal feud became hotter today as James E. McGuire, central figure in an intra-union scrap, was pushed off the C.C.L.'s executive. He then charged "dictatorial action."

The C.C.L. executive council declared Mr. McGuire disqualified from its 12-man executive because of his expulsion earlier this week from his own union [illegible] between him and A. R. Mosher, C.C.L. president.

Mr. McGuire, a member of the executive of the 350,000-member congress since 1942, said his eviction from C.C.L. office violates congress principles. However, he said he does not intend to fight it.

His long-standing friction with Mr. Mosher led this week to his firing from the national secretary-treasureship of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.), Canada's biggest transport union. Mr. Mosher also is president of that union.

Today, the C.C.L. council — governing body of the congress between annual conventions — said the fact that Mr. McGuire now is not a member in good standing of his own union means he cannot sit on the congress' elected executed committee.

The council made its decision known in a brief statement during a meeting here, called to deal normally with tomorrow's annual legislative submission of the congress to the federal government.

In an interview later, Mr. McGuire observed he has been chairman of the C.C.L.'s committee on constitution and law for several years.

He added:

"At no time was it intended by the congress that anyone should be removed from C.C.L. elective office solely because of unilateral action by any constituent organization.

"If this dictatorial action is to be carried out in the vindictive spirit of Mosher it is going to destroy all respect for the C.C.L. by labor."

He indicated he will appeal to the 28,000 members of his own union to get himself reinstated.

Whether or not he gets back in, it was certain the almost-unprecedented firing of the 54-year-old union chief would be a big issue at the Toronto convention — also in September — of the congress.

The expulsion of Mr. McGuire is linked with a behind-the-scenes fight for power in both the C.B.R.E. and the congress, a tangled battle that his been under way for months.

In the congress, Mr. McGuire was opposed to what has been regarded in some C.C.L. quarters as a drive for power by C. H. Millard of Toronto, Canadian head of the United Steel Workers of America.

Oddities

HOLLYWOOD, March 26 (INS).—Hollywood movie actors said today the income tax collector left them so broke that ten of them, led by Jack Benny, have joined a buried treasure hunt on a Santa Monica ranch.

The ranch was once a Spanish land grant which belong to Antonio Machado and Xavier Alvarado. Now it is the property of Teddy Lynch, television actress, who happens to be the wife of millionaire oilman J. Paul Getty.

Along with the ranch came a legend of Dutch pirates who buried their treasure in the sycamore grove of Boca de Santa Monica.

Just after March 15 it seemed like a great idea to dig up this treasure. Miss Lynch invited her friends to join in the work and share the wealth. Pick and shovel day has been set for April 5.

Jack Benny accepted the first invitation. He's shopping for a hydraulic spade.

Other stars will bring their families and make an all-day picnic of the hunt. They include: Betty Hutton, Dorothy Lamour, James Mason, Robert Young, Edgar Bergen, Dick Powell, George Montgomery and Don Defore.

Electricians Returning to Job

VANCOUVER, March 26 (CP) —Union officials report 18 electricians who left their jobs at the Aluminum Company of Canada's project at Kitimat have agreed to return to work Friday at their old rate of $2.15 an hour.

Negotiations will start immediately between the employer, Mott Electric of Vancouver, and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F.L.) for higher pay.

The men left their work last week when the company refused to meet their demand for a wage rate of $2.40 an hour.

Call Canadian Attitude "Callous"

The storm which lashed the north shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario, bringing waves strong enough to lift the concrete breakwater shown here, has led angry protest from the U.S. residents on the south shores. Homeowners there say the Canadian government, in "a cruel and callous" attitude, is keeping the level of the lakes up in anticipation of the St. Lawrence seaway demands for high water. They claim that high-water level of the lakes, together with the storm caused, millions of dollars damage to their homes. — (Central Press Canadian.)

New Flame-Fighter Will Speed Rescues

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP)— The air force has adopted new fire-fighting equipment which an expert says will give airmen a considerably better chance of being rescued from crashed and burning planes.

A demonstration was given today of apparatus which hurls what is in effect pressurized baking soda on the flames, "knocks them down," throws them back and cools off the cockpit.

FO. Bert Quinn of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Ottawa, the R.C.A.F.'s chief fireman, says the billowing, white clouds make it possible to press flames back, wall them off and clear the way for rescues within three seconds.

They didn't try rescue work ini the demonstration at Uplands Airport in the presence of United States, British and Canadian officials. But they touched off a roaring fire with 300 gallons of gasoline around the skeleton of a Hudson bomber and then put it out in 2½ minutes.

FO. Quinn says an advantage from Canada's standpoint is that the new process can be used in the Arctic. It has been tested at 65 degrees below zero.

The baking-soda-type dry chemical was developed in the United States and is under test by the U.S.A.F. in Alaska. A Woodstock, Ont., firm (Bickle-Seagrave) has started to turn out the special $40,000 red fire crash-trucks for its use.

The truck gushes the white clouds in two ways, from two "guns" mounted on top which look something like anti-aircraft guns and from a number of hose-lines. A crew of eight men handles the gear.

The truck carries two tons of the dry chemical mainly consisting of sodium bicarbonate. The material now used is carbon dioxide foam.

Big Helicopter For Magnificent

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP) — The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent is to be equipped with a big, eight-passenger Sikorsky helicopter to act as a rescue plane during flying operations.

A navy spokesman said today the Sikorsky is expected to be delivered next month and will go first to the naval air station at Halifax.

Tax, Living Cost Fight Set

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP).— The Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, while planning organization for the next federal election, today pledged its party to a fight against high taxes and the cost of living.

At a concluding session of a three-day annual meeting, the association adopted a resolution saying the federal government's tax policies created problems and were party responsible for unemployment and the high cost of living.

The resolution said the Progressive Conservative party pledges to promote and sponsor legislation to:

Stop non-essential government commitments.

Prevent hidden taxes.

Prevent imposition of unnecessary taxes and to reduce taxes to a level sufficient to accomplish rational reductions in the national debt; payment of commitments for essential requirements; enhancement of the value of the Canadian dollar; and a substantial reduction in the cost of living.

The resolution was one of several adopted by the meeting which re-elected George Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., as president for a one-year term.

All sessions were closed. Mr. Nowlan, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the Nova Scotia constituency of Annapolis-Kings, issued the texts of their resolutions.

Of the resolutions, some suggested establishment of a committee to study senate reform; for electoral reform; for decentralization of industry; for a Commonweaith conference on trade and establishment of a committee to reconsider the party's policy with respect to the marketing of agricultural products.

Appended to the report of the senior association without comment were resolutions adopted by the Young Progressive Conservatives at a separate meeting Monday.

One of the Y.P.C. resolutions urged a Criminal Code amendment to permit the provinces to operate lotteries to aid in hospital financing.

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 1952

Premier Johnson's Word

IN A prepared statement issued to calm public protests Premier Byron Johnson, speaking as president of the Executive Council, on Nov. 7 last gave this explicit undertaking on the Buttle Lake issue: "I can assure the people . . . that it is the government's intention that the representatives of the people as assembled in the legislature of this province will have ample opportunity to discuss Buttle Lake at the next session of the legislature and that provision will be made to bring about a full discussion in this respect."

What happened at one o'clock in the morning in an exhausted House yesterday was not "a full discussion" of the subject. Information asked for by certain members of the House was refused. A too-pat amendment in the dying hours of the session was rammed in on top of an opposition motion, stifling discussion on the subject and blocking any chance whatever of legislative review of the correspondence and facts attending the dispute. No such action could have been taken without the government's knowledge and approval. By this means, and the the government chose them, the legislature "recorded its approval of the damming of Buttle Lake."

We call on Premier Johnson now to keep his pledged word—that there will be no active step taken to dam Buttle Lake until the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia at its next session has been given every opportunity for full discussion; on the floor of the House, in daytime, and with all of the correspondence and all of the facts laid on the table. Only so can the Premier now make good his word.

If even one technical authority can say that the damming of Upper Campbell Lake instead would be better that is something that must be examined properly and not brushed aside. Far greater than the damming of Buttle Lake, however, and more important even than the invasion of a park deeded in trust to the people, is the issue of responsibility among our elected leaders. When the premier of the province and the head of the government pledges his word he pledges his honor at the same time. We feel certain that Mr. Johnson thinks sufficiently of both to set aside this pig-in-a-poke "approval" and party expediency to maintain and to retain the confidence of the electors in his promise. We suggest again that the government defer action outright at Buttle Lake until the incoming legislature has reviewed the whole case from the start.

Politics, But Not Good Law

RETROACTIVE law is bad law. It interferes with solemn contracts entered into in good faith; it upsets established civil relations; it denies the very law whose time field it enters. In the case of the backdated amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act it is also unfair to industry.

On an actuarial basis industry has been assessed in each of past years to create a fund wherewith to provide compensation to injured workmen, their widows and dependents. When that assesment was paid a binding, legitimate, legal obligation was met in full. To say now that ihdustry of the present and the future should pay again for past accidents is, no matter what the Liberal majority in the legislature has decided, untenable in reason.

The anomalous nature of such legislation becomes clear when it is realized that a 1952 factory will be compelled to pay compensation costs for an accident occurring in 1942 even though this self-same factory may not have existed 10 years ago.

There was, of course, an anomaly to be righted when the decision to increase compensation payments was made. It would have been inequitable to have widows and other dependents discriminated against merely because the accidents that victimized them took place some time ago. Commissioner Sloan recognized this when he made his exhaustive inquiry into the compensation statute and recommended that rates of payment should be increased and that the cost of making this retroactive should be charged against general revenues.

The Johnson regime has chosen to adopt one half of this joint recommendation while ignoring the other. Two-thirds of the backdated cost will be met out of the compensation fund, itself a trust fund created by industry, while the remaining third will be charged as an additional levy against industry. Apparently the cabinet has concluded the plan is a better vote-catching one than the unpolitical suggestion of Mr. Sloan.

Pioneering New Industry

VICTORIA shipyards may have had bigger jobs in the past, but probably none with more interesting possibilities than the $800,000 contract awarded to Yarrows Ltd. to construct power-line transmission towers for the Aluminum Company of Canada. This is not merely a new kind of work for the industry in Victoria; it is something entirely new in the engineering world: the use of aluminum where steel has been deemed necessary in the past. Victoria therefore is pioneering in a new field, and one which may lend itself to valuable development as results of the work done here become more widely known.

Under this contract Yarrows will build the complete components of 41 large towers of revolutionary structural design, for assembly as supports for Alcan's projected transmission line between Kemano and Kitimat. It is the mountainous, almost inaccessible nature of the terrain there, plus climatic extremes, which decided the company to explore the possibility of using lighter and more easily transportable metal. Five months of experimental work at the Yarrows yard here culminated in the erection of a prototype tower which recently satisfied exacting tests for stresses and strains. Probably no undertaking has been handled with more enthusiastic interest by Yarrows staff, and it must have given them much satisfaction to have the main contract awarded to their company.

The contract does more than provide additional employment in the shipbuilding industry here. The whole undertaking has aroused interest far beyond this province, thereby focusing on Victoria as an industrial centre attention which is not easily captured. The high costs of construction in this part of the world are making contracts to build new ships harder and harder to get, and it is interesting to speculate on the possibility of the shipbuilding industry here branching out into more versatile construction as a result of the pioneer work done for Alcan. If that should be the happy outcome, the gain to the city would be of major importance.

FOOD PARCELS

Sir,—It would be a great pity if Mr. MacGill's letter, published in your paper March 25, caused anyone to desist from sending food parcels to friends in England. Custom officers have for years opened and checked such parcels arriving in Britain. The laws referred to in your correspondent's letter were passed to prevent unscrupious persons from smuggling sterling out and disposing of the food thus secured by black market methods.

Furthermore, the circular referred to specifically mention "the sterling area."

LIQUOR PLEBISCITE

Sir,—Bishop Gower is not alone in advocating the appointment of a Royal commission on the study of the consumption, manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages. For many years the United Church of Canada has urged this step upon both federal and provincial governments. Men of many nations have for years applied some of the best brains of our time in the study of this problem. A valuable body of scientifically tested knowledge and experience is at hand to be used in such a study. Moreover no one of such experts can be found to agree with the idea that it can be solved by mere snap judgment such as in a hurried plebiscite. Ontario's experiment with cocktail bars has been much publicized . . . These and many other facts that might be adduced all argue for the contention that no body of electors in Canada nor even any government are competent to prescribe off hand an adequate solution. In our province we have spent upwards of $200,000 in the study of a health program. Who will deny that this gigantic problem which the Yale School of Alcohol has declared involves the third worst scourge upon humanity, does not merit at least equally adequate consideration?

Let the government behave with boldness in this matter and they will receive wide support regardless of party affiliations. Let a referendum be held containing the result of deliberate informed judgments.

H. P. DAVIDSON.

McCORMICK'S DIATRIBE

Sir,—Col. McCormick's (editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune) remarks regarding half-witted Canadians are ungracious and discourteous, but if we consider that Chicago is known for its violent crimes they may be considered as characteristic to a certain extent. I would hesitate to classify all the people of Newfoundland by the conduct of a few, if I were the colonel, otherwise he may be linked with that ambitious senator who wanted to buy the whole lot of us idiots. It is interesting to note we two countries are so related that we may speak our mind freely. We in Canada can be thankful that the more powerful country next door can also be tolerant toward us more backward folk.

However let us not be unduly influenced by this irate traveler's observations; thousands of his countrymen return time and again to fraternize with us morons.

Stick it out Newfoundlanders. You'll get used to being Canadians in time!

SIGNS SUGGESTED—

Sir,—With the arrival of spring and the ever-increasing number of tourists converging on our city, I think it would be a good idea to erect signs at all entrances to the roundabout to inform our visitors "Counter-Clockwise Roupdabout Ahead," and maybe even add "Slow to 20 and Yield Right of Way to Car in Circle."

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

OBVIOUSLY, else you would have heard of it ere this, I never won a billiards championship. I'm not at all sure that in my span to date I ever won any kind of championship, which is probably just as well. I doubt that I could stand such glory.

One man I have been reading about lately has thrived on it. Willie Hoppe, they call him, and were I a pun-maker I could say with accuracy he has been hopping all over his opponents for decades, ever since he was a boy of 10. Just last week he won his 48th world championship. I don't know how extensive that world has been, but since this is not to depreciate his feats let that thought go.

The only kind of billiards I know, or knew rather for I long since lost acquaintance with the green cloth, is the form known to its devotees as English billiards; that is, the game played with a table having six pockets. Mr. Hoppe's tables never had any pockets, his games being of the balk-line and three-cushion variety.

* * *

I can only guess at this type of billiards, and stand back in awe. Remembering that to amass any kind of score, no matter how minute, I most certainly needed all six pockets (actually I could have done with a few more), the thought of being limited to caroms within the confines of certain table areas or only after the cue ball has caressed three cushions in succession—why, that both con-and-dumfounds me. For those to whom a billiard table represents the great unknown, what is called a carom (in my time it was a cannon) is accomplished when the ball you strike with a cue goes on to touch two other balls, your opponent's and a spare one colored red. For this achievement you count one or two points as the game may be. The object is to make as many points as possible at each visit to the table. When you fail to make one, of course, you vacate your turn at the table.

Put thus, I fear, billiards sounds rather juvenile, as do most games when viewed in the abstract, even that which entails walking several miles to knock a different kind of white ball into holes in the ground, or that which causes men to adopt padded uniforms and steel-shod boots in order to hit a black disc into a piece of netting, which latter art you may examine at close range for yourself tomorrow night at the Memorial Arena. (And see that you cheer loudly for you know whom.)

* * *

But naturally no game of any kind would ever be played did it not call for high degrees of skill and interest. In the realm of billiards these reach their peak in delicacy of touch and a chess-like ability to think ahead one, two, three or a dozen strokes. Personally when I could successfully envisage one stroke ahead I was elated. But as I remarked I never won any championships.

Mr. Hoppe, now, collected world titles at an average rate of one per year for nearly half a century, which is testimony not only to his deft handling of a cue but also to his amazing resiliency of mind. The strain of top-flight competition over such a lengthy period can be imagined only by individuals who have taken part in any competitive game, or indeed any kind of competition, be it throwing darts (for a large side bet), having a vocal audition (at the Metropolitan Opera), or bidding for a premiership (especially in B.C.).

Even the evergreen Willie, however, has decided that there comes a day. He plans now to retire, probably to a billiards table in his basement where he may miss caroms to his heart's content. Not for him the sad trail of champions who do not get out while the getting is good, untarnished. He will take his 48th title with him and put it on a shelf beyond the reach of some brash new cue-comer in whom the name Hoppe strikes no fear. A wise man.

As an old (and immature) hand at English billiards I salute this master of the balk-line and three-cushion game. He must be, indubitably, quite a guy.

Gerald Waring

Reports From Ottawa

EACH YEAR since 1949 Roy Knight (C.C.F., Saskatoon) has moved a resolution in the Commons calling on the government to help the provinces pay the costs of education.

Each time the former school teacher's resolution has been debated, but only once, in 1951, did it come to a vote. It was defeated on straight party lines—Liberals against the combined opposition.

Other times the Liberal majority simply "talked out" the resolution—a form of filibuster possible because only three hours a week are allotted to private members' resolutions. If the one under discussion isn't fully debated in that time, it is usually pigeonholed for the rest of the session.

The reason the Liberals would rather filibuster the Knight resolution into a parliamentary cul-de-sac than vote it down is that it is so disarmingly dangerous. Everybody's for education, just as everybody's against sin. But it would embarrass the government if parliament recommended payments to help the provinces finance education. On the other hand, many Liberal M.P.'s find it embarrassing to vote against the resolution. Thus the easy solution for the Grits is to talk it out, so it won't come to a vote.

* * *

They talked out Knight's resolution last week, but it took more talking than usual because the C.C.F. teamed with the Progressive Conservatives to out-general the Liberals.

Had Works Minister Fournier, the Liberals' House leader, been on the job he would have moved adjournment of the debate and the bothersome question would have been buried for the rest of the session.

However, there is one man on the Opposition side of the House who, like cabinet ministers, is not subject to the 40-minute time limit on speeches. He is the leader of the official opposition, George Drew. And since he and his P.C. followers favor the resolution, he gladly fell in with a C.C.F. suggestion that he speak in its support and carry through until 6 p.m. without adjourning the debate. This he did, and so by parliament's rules the resolution came up again next day for further debate.

In all, the Commons spent about eight hours discussing the pros and cons of the resolution, and the whole broad field of primary and secondary education.

No one voiced disagreement with Knight's hypothesis: "That all children in Canada should enjoy equality of opportunity of education irrespective of their geographical position, or the country of origin of their parents, or of their economic status."

Justice Minister Garson was chosen by the Liberals to axe the resolution, as Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Health Minister Martin had done in other years. He expressed the nub of the government's opposition when he told the House that "the Dominion (sic) treasury simply could not defend handing out these large sums of money to the legislatures without assuming some responsibility as to the manner in which they would be spent . . . which would involve an interference with the provincial legislatures' exclusive authority over education." In other words, sacred provincial rights were at stake.

Other Liberals took up the line and talked at a 40-minutes-per clip until time ran out. Now aid to education is a dead duck until next session.

Dent-Proof Cars

From The Winnipeg Free Press

THERE WAS A TIME when an automobile fender was a thing apart. If, through the driver's bad luck or carelessness, the projecting mudguard was crumpled or torn, it could be unbolted and replaced or repaired for a few dollars.

The modern fender is a thing of beauty; when it ends and the body proper begins is difficult to define. The dismayed motorist of today, looking down at his mutilated fender, is looking at a major repair job. But the day may be near when 75 cents or a dollar will be enough to straighten things out.

An automobile with a plastic body, dentproof, rustproof and stronger than steel, was displayed in Philadelphia last week. The body is moulded in one piece of polyester plastic sandwiched with glass fibre and it has been given some pretty stiff tests.

A bump which would give an ordinary car a crumpled fender leaves the plastic car unscathed. The two-inch thick plastic simply springs back into its proper contours. The car is not indestructable though. In one test it was driven against a tree trunk at 25 miles an hour and the result was a 14-inch crack (in the car). But with a little glass fibre and plastic the repairmen had it patched up as good as new in one hour.

It may be a bit early yet for motorists to start placing orders for plastic cars but the possibilities are pleasant to contemplate. Among them are cheaper cars, fewer and lighter repair bills, reduced insurance rates and the ability to take a nudge in the fender with tranquility.

In the Good Old Days

(From The Brantford Expositor)

THE FOLLOWING interesting rules are from an employees' handbook issued by a Chicago business establishment:

Store must open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. the year around.

Store must be swept and counters, bases, shelves and showcases dusted.

Lamps must be trimmed, bins filled, chimneys cleaned, door and windows opened, a pail of water, also a bucket of coal brought in before breakfast (if there is time to do so), and attend to customers who call.

Each employee must pay not less than $5 a year to the church and must attend Sunday school regularly.

Men employees are given one evening a week for courting and two if they go to prayer meeting.

After 14 hours' work in the store the leisure time should be spent mostly in reading.

The startled reader, used to pension benefits, paid vacations, escalator clauses and coffee recess, will be relieved to learn that the rules were laid down in 1857.

DOODLING FOR MONEY

Early doodlings on jam-pots with shoe polish led one British Industries Fair exhibitor — Dulcie Vaughan — to start her own glass and pottery factory in Chelsea, London "Greenwich Village." Members of the Royal Family were among her first customers for her wares, hand-painted with sport scenes and bird, flower and animal subjects, now sold all over the world.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

IN CONVERSATION, women must face each other. Men get along very comfortably in profile.

You see this best in a bus or train. Except for m-o-v-e-ments of their heads, and an occasional side glance at each other to drive home a point in their discussion, two men can sit side by side for hours in continuous discourse and you would never know they were talking.

But two women side by side must twist around and face each other if possible; or at the very least, turn their heads to converse nose to nose and eye to eye. Very often, in the case of men, one is a talker and the other a listener. Very seldom do you find this to be so with the ladies. Both are talkers; perhaps one more than the other. But a conversation between ladies is a conversation. And it could not be carried out unless they are eye to eye, each watching intently the expression on the other's face. There seems to be a fascination in it. They are either unable to make their meaning plain or else are unable to perceive the meaning, unless staring intently, not lip-readers, but eye-readers, into each other's gaze.

* * *

Two men on the other hand, can carry on a spirited conversation while one sags back gazing absently out the train window and the other allows his glance to travel idly over his fellow-passengers.

It could be women are instinctively honest and men are instinctively evasive. It could be, however, that women are instinctively interested in each other, and men are instinctively bored with each other.

If a man and woman are sitting chatting side by side, the man's face is turned to her, if she is pretty. If she isn't pretty, the woman's face is turned to the man. That, of course, is no puzzle.

Britain's First A-Bomb

By GEOFFREY BOCCA, From London

THE ALL-BRITISH atomic bomb to be exploded in the Australian badlands at Woomera, 350 miles north of Adelaide, later in the year will be a "combat" weapon unsuitable for delivery against cities. This is one of several items now leaking out, accidentally or deliberately, through the stiff British security screen.

Exactly how the British bomb can be used by and against troops is not known, but it is reliably reported that the British bomb will be smaller and less powerful than the bombs detonated so far in the United States. The confident British scientists are saying that the detonating mechanism is much more efficient than anything the United States had produced so far.

There probably will be more than one explosion at Woomera, and the effect will be observed by top-secret British-made television cameras which will be placed closer to the point of detonation than has been found possible before. The cameras will be capable of taking 10,000 exposures a second and will be watched and recorded by scientists miles away.

* * *

Construction of the British bomb began in 1948 and is completely different from the American pattern. The United States was kept aware in general terms of British progress, but the British have kept details of the delicate detonating mechanism to themselves.

Preparations for the atomic tests have been a tonic to British science, and several government spokesmen, off the record, have been having some good-natured sarcasm at the expense of the United States. One pointed out today that British science contributed heavily to the original development of nuclear fission during the Second World War, and that since America clamped her Atomic Energy Act down and kept atomic developments secret, she has unnecessarily slowed down her own progress in atomic-energy exploitation.

* * *

It is believed in London that after Woomera many barriers between British and American development of atomic bombs will be lowered and some relationship closer to that existing in the Second World War will be resumed.

Security tests will be more rigid than those laid down by the American authorities at Bikini but rather less than in later tests in Nevada. In charge of security arrangements will be Sir Percy Sillitoe, British equivalent of J. Edgar Hoover, and chief empire spy-chaser.

It was the plant and flower of Light.

Colombo Plan Stressed As Vital to Block Reds

DENVER, March 26 (INS).—The Australian ambassador to the United States claimed today that the two best weapons against Communist aggression are military might and a system of economic and technical aid to weaker countries.

The 54-year-old diplomat, Percy Claude Spender, is in Denver for a three-day visit to speak at Colorado university's convocation and to tour U.S. reclamation facilities.

Spender told newsmen that although military power is important, "it is not the complete answer in Asia, the Pacific and Far East."

He stressed the importance and success of the Colombo Plan—a mutual assistance program which he authored and championed at a conference of British Commonwealth foreign ministers at Colombo, Ceylon, early in 1950.

"The Colombo Plan," he said, "now is in its first year of operation and basically is a mutual assistance scheme similar to the Marshall Plan and point four.

"It has been immediately successful because it is designed to assist the people of south and southeast Asia to develop their own countries in their own way—with no strings attached."

He said the multi-billion dollar six-year plan, launched by Australia and Britain's Commonwealth of Nations, offers capital assistance and technical aid to underdeveloped countries which apply for it.

He warned: "I am convinced that Russia believes she can find her way to Europe through Asia.

"Since Asia, China and Japan constitute more than half the world's population and contains many vital and strategic raw materials, it is extremely important to the free world to stop Communist expansion there."

ANCIENT LAND

Iran, one of the oldest countries in the world, was called the "Land of the Persians and Medes" in the Bible.

Modern Tell Eases Hunger

MIDDLETON, N.S., March 26 (INS).—Don Bowlby of Middleton, pulled a modern version of William Tell by shooting yeast cakes across the Annapolis River with a bow and arrow.

For two weeks, the across-the-river residents had been virtually buried by heavy snows, which kept them house ridden. They needed the yeast to relieve the lack of bread.

Bank Manager Tardy, Chided by Holdup Man

NEW YORK, March 26 (INS).—A bank manager testified today that Willie (The Actor) Sutton rebuked him for tardiness the day of the $63,942 holdup of the Queens branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company.

Dignified Robert H. Hoffman, manager of the branch which was robbed on March 9, 1950, said that when he entered the bank "between 9.40 and 9.45 a.m." he was greeted by Sutton, gun in hand, with a snapped:

"Why were you late?"

Then, said the greying banker, Sutton marched him downstairs and had him seat himself with the 16 other employes lined up in chairs facing the wall.

Slim, dark and demure Mary Corbett told the court that Sutton, who worked with her at a Staten Island old folks home and occupied a room in her home for two years, departed abruptly two days after the bank robbery, leaving $700 on the bed. She said she knew Willie only as "Edward Lynch."

A pair of trousers found in her home by detectives after Willie had left was introduced as evidence. It contained a sheet of paper with the times of arrival of the bank employes, allegedly in Sutton's handwriting.

Hoffman told the all-male jury in Queens county court that Sutton is the only one of the three bandits he is able to identify.

Authorities Query Swami

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP)—Immigration headquarters here are looking into the case of Swami Shivananda, the Hindu Yogi who says he's been ordered to stop his Yogi lessons in Vancouver or leave the country.

A spokesman said if the Swami has actually been ordered to stop his demonstrations, it may be because he's getting paid for them. He's in Canada on a visitor's visa which does not allow him to take a remunerative job.

In any case Immigration Minister Harris has asked Vancouver for a report. So far, the minister said, he's received no communications about the Swami's case.

Brazil Ousts War Minister

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 26 (INS)—Brazilian President Getulio Vargas fired his war minister and the commander of the key first military region today in the hope of closing the army breach that has developed over Communist infiltration.

A top-level army reshuffle was anticipated.

Gen. Newton Estillac Leal was replaced as war minister by Gen. Cyro Espirito Santo Cardoso, Vargas' chief military aide.

Estillac Leal has been regarded in some Brazilian quarters as a Communist sympathizer because of his opposition to anti-Communist Gen. Zenobio da Costa, who was let out as commander of the first military region, embracing the capital and two adjacent states.

Both Estillac Leal and da Costa had offered to resign.

Stalin Misses Soviet Session

MOSCOW, March 26 (INS).—Premier Stalin was absent tonight when the Supreme Soviet (parliament) of the Russian Republic opened its session at the Kremlin. Other Politburo members attended the meeting.

(The British magazine Intelligence Digest on Tuesday quoted a highly-placed Russian informant as saying that the 72-year-old Stalin is a "chronic invalid" after two brain "disturbances" and might die "at any time.")

The Russian Supreme Soviet adopted a three-point agenda including the 1952 budget.

Politburo members present included Georgi Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov and Security Chief Lavrenti Beria.

Member Charges Government Waste

WINNIPEG, March 26 (CP).—Charges of extravagance and inefficiency in its internal administration were leveled at the Manitoba government today by Duff Roblin (P.C.—Winnipeg South) as debate on the 1952-53 budget opened in the legislature.

Mr. Roblin urged establishment of an independent commission to investigate means of cutting down government spending and followed through with a want-of-confidence motion.

MOTION AMENDED

Gordon Fines (C.C.F.—Winnipeg Centre) moved an amendment to the want-of-confidence motion charging the government failed to provide sufficient aid to municipalities.

Mr. Roblin said the government had made no step to reverse the province's decline in population and had allowed the provincial debt to soar beyond reasonable limits. He asked that an increase in administration costs of 326 per cent — from $4,007,392 in 1940 to $13,081,344 in 1951—be looked into.

By failing to see Manitoba in its relationship to Canada as a whole, the budget had fallen short of providing for Manitoba's future progress, Mr. Roblin claimed.

FUMBLED FREIGHT

People were not attracted to Manitoba because the government had "fumbled with freight rates, shown reluctance in the field of agriculture research and hesitated in proceeding with an adequate plan for industrial development," he said.

He contended that not only had the government failed to halt the shift in population away from the province, but also it had failed to take proper account of the shift from rural to urban areas.

This had placed an additional burden on municipalities but the government continued to make rules with regard to education and social services which the municipalities had to carry out and pay for, he said.

Mr. Fines said it was not good enough to concentrate on setting aside reserves indefinitely for emergencies and loss of future revenue "while local governments are being forced into the position of taxing . . . beyond their capacity."

Wings, Leafs Both Holler "Dirty Play" After Opening Brawl

DETROIT, March 26 (CP)—"Dirty play" charges were traded by Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings after last night's Stanley Cup semifinal opener which saw hockey take a back seat to a record-breaking penalty parade.

"It was disgraceful hockey and the blame rests with the Leafs' top management," said Detroit Manager Jack Adams after his club had beaten Toronto 3-0 in the opener of the best-of-seven series.

"It was planned strategy to upset our offense," Adams added. "That the way the Leafs always play and it doesn't make any difference who the opponent is. Our boys had orders not to fight back—just head for the penalty box if they were sent there."

Manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs countered by accusing the Red Wings of going after one of the Toronto defensemen.

"The Wings were trying to get (Fern) Flaman out of the game," he said. "Apparently Chadwick (Referee Bill Chadwick) didn't know Flaman had a fractured jaw."

Flaman drew five penalties—three of them in the second period when 15 were handed out, tying the record for a period.

Smythe naturally wasn't counting the Leafs out of the running. "There wasn't much chance to play hockey," he said. "But we'll be back in there Thursday."

In all, 29 penalties were called during last night's game. The old record of 24 was set in 1948 by the Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens during the regular season. Previous playoff record was 21 set by Toronto and Boston Bruins last season.

During the second period, the penalty box was occupied for 15 minutes and 15 seconds of the 20 minutes.

Seven roughing penalties led the march to the cooler. Six were for interference, four were majors for fighting, four were misconducts, two for high-sticking, two for holding, two hooking, one tripping and one cross-checking.

Oddly enough, Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings who has a reputation as a rough house player, didn't have a penalty called against him.

Cook Strait, separating the north and south islands of New Zealand, is only 16 miles wide at its narrowest part.

Doubters Go Through With Long Walk

Jack McNie, ardent supporter of Victoria Cougars, smiles triumphantly and points out way to Colwood Corner from car as Clifford Simmonds prepares to start long hike to pay off wager made after argument over respective merits of Victoria Cougars and Vancouver Canucks.

Simmonds and Archie McBride, who was in his corner in argument, are shown in fair shape about midway through trip. Losers were forced to make long jaunt when Cougars defeated Seattle Sunday to wind up P.C.H.L. season ahead of Canucks.—(Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman.)

Argentine Police To Boss Referees

BUENOS AIRES, March 26 (AP).—Football referees in Argentina's Cordoba province are in for a rough time this year.

A new police code says the whistle tooters will be liable to seven days in jail and a fine if they are "guilty of partiality or negligence," which leads to incidents in the field.

The code says that the club directors responsible for hiring referees so accused also would be liable for prison terms and fines.

The code failed to mention who would judge the referees' behavior.

Sailors in Rally for 2-0 Series Lead After Bruising Battle With Merchants

A fighting Navy team came busting from behind with a four-goal third period at Memorial Arena last night to defeat Victoria Merchants, 5-3, and take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Commercial Hockey League final in a battle which rivalled anything Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler have produced in the way of rough action.

Both teams obviously had but one thought in mind when they took the ice — that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line — and they never quit trying to take advantage of that fact. Crushing bodychecks, butt ends, high elbows, and flying sticks were the rule rather than the exception and, as could be expected, it produced plenty of action.

TEMPERS FLARE

Navy's Doug Johnston and Merchants' Cliff Coulter were the first to tangle seriously. Both went off with major penalties. Then Sailor John Bond tried conclusions with Ab Taylor. Late in the game, Merchants' Len Elphick and Al Standley exchanged blows and Coulter took out after Art Riches late in the second period after hurting a leg when the pair crashed into the boards. They were held apart by teammates.

McBETH HURT

Players hit hard and often from the start with the pro-Navy crowd of about 2,000 enjoying things immensely as Johnston set down one Merchant after another. However, unnoticed at the time, Connie McBeth was hurt in a collision with the rugged Navy rearguard. He was taken to hospital with a possible broken shoulder.

Navy started fast as Al Standley scored the first of three goals at 1.24 on a pass from Bunker Hill and it began to look like another lopsided win for the Tars. But hardly before the cheers had died down, Cliff Coulter tied the count at 2.25 and Jimmy Gallant put Merchants ahead nine seconds later.

Navy stormed around Ab Ellis in the Merchants' net but they could not get the goal back and Al Arnold made it 3-1 when his long shot deflected past a startled Stan Sparks at 16.06.

That was all the scoring until 6.56 of the third period when Roy Derry scored a questionable goal. His shot from the left-hand side hit the pipe and bounced out. The Merchants claimed that if the puck had been in the goal it would not have come out and captain Al Arnold reported that his team would be protesting the game. Manager Jim Lackie would not confirm the report.

SAILORS IN TIE

Standley converted another pass from Hill at 7.55 to put Navy on even terms and Russ McKay scored from Orville Coulter at 11.26 to put the Sailors in front. Standley clicked on a beautiful solo effort less than a minute later to complete the scoring.

Although the Tars outskated and outshot their opponents throughout they ran into one snag, especially in the first two periods. His name was Ab Ellis. The league's top goalie gave an excellent display of his championship form as he stopped at least one shot from every Navy player with the exception of Sparks.

Sparks had a much easier time in the Navy nets as his defense men—Johnson, Ray Shedlowski, Paul LaPointe and Riches—took care of most Merchant attacks.

Victoria Merchants—Ellis; Miles, B. Jensen, Reynolds, B. Jensen, Gunter, Gallant, Taylor, McBeth, Piecho, C. Coulter, B. Coulter, Elphick.

Navy—Sparks; Johnson, Shedlowski, Standley, Hill, Brown, Wood, Bond, Wanamaker, McKay, Derry, O. Coulter, Riches, LaPointe, Howe.

First period—1, Navy, Standley (Hill, Brown), 1.24. 2, Merchants, C. Coulter (B. Coulter), 2.35. 3, Merchants, Gallant, 2.34. 4, Merchants, Arnold, 16.06. Penalties, Riches, C. Coulter, Derry, Elphick.

Second period—Scoring, none. Penalties, Johnson (major), C. Coulter (major), Bond (2 minors), Reynolds, Taylor, Gunter.

Third period—5, Navy, Derry, 6.56. 6, Navy, Standley (Hill), 7.55. 7, Navy, McKay (O. Coulter), 11.26. 8, Navy, Standley, 12.24. Penalties, Bond, Standley (major), Elphick (major).

Eilers Come From Behind To Tie Edmonton Series

EDMONTON, March 26 (CP)—Vancouver Eilers came from behind in the fourth quarter tonight to edge Edmonton Meteors 67-65 and force their Western Canada Senior Men's Basketball semi-final to the limit.

The narrow victory, paced by Jim Mitchell, evened the best-of-three series at one game each. Meteors won the opener last night by a 62-58 count. Third game will be played here tomorrow.

Mitchell sparked the Eilers attack with an 18-point display that Meteors couldn't halt. Nev Munro and John Forsyth contributed a big share to the victory, scoring 15 and 13 points respectively.

But Meteors' Bob Pickell, a former Vancouver Clover Leaf ace, set the scoring pace in the game for the second straight time. The big forward hit the loop for 29 points, two less than last night, to lead all in the scoring column.

Billy Price was again second high man for the Edmonton quintet with 13 points.

Eilers came out on top 21-19 in the first quarter but neither team could go far ahead as the lead changed hands several times. In the second quarter it was a different story and the Vancouver squad held a 42-32 margin at the half-way mark.

Meteors, always driving in the second half, bounced into the lead late in the third quarter and were ahead 53-51 when the final period started.

Line-ups:

Edmonton—Clark (3), Pearce (3), Price (13), Barwell (4), Kruger (7), Manterlof (9), Pickell (29), Bakken, Martin, Leah. Total—68.

Vancouver—Munro (15), Lawn (4), Moses (4), Wotherspoon (4), Lisec (4), Forsyth (13), Waite (3), Mitchell (18), Russell (3). Total—67.

Officials—Ed Temick and Don Smith.

Eilers Capture Western Title

VANCOUVER, March 26 (CP)—Vancouver Eilers defeated Edmonton Pats 48-31 here tonight to make a clean sweep of the best-of-five series for the Western Canada Senior "A" women's basketball crown.

Eilers won the first game 38-35, the second 65-45.

The Vancouver team led all the way, outscoring Pats in every quarter but one.

Bays Chalk Up Third Victory To Extend Lead

HOW THEY STAND

	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.	Pts.
Oak Bay	3	0	1	16	1	7
Victoria High	1	0	1	3	0	3
Mount Douglas	1	1	1	7	4	3
Esquimalt	0	2	2	0	16	2
Mount View	0	2	1	1	4	1

Oak Bay High School scored its third victory in the Inter-High School Junior Soccer League by blanking Mount Douglas, 4-0, at Oak Bay yesterday.

The win strengthened Oak Bay's first-place position. It is now four points in front of Victoria High and Mount Douglas.

Oak Bay had a definite edge on the play throughout but could not break through the Mount Douglas defense and score cleanly. Bob Showers gave the winners a 2-0 lead at half time by converting a pair of penalty kicks while Bill Gosling and Phil Willis completed the scoring in the second canto.

Young Welter Scores T.K.O. Over Williams

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP).—Unbeaten Chuck Davey, southpaw boxer from Michigan State College, tonight scored a technical knockout over Ike Williams, former lightweight champion, in 1:?? of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Referee William Doty halted the bout when Williams was unable to defend himself under Davey's two-fisted attack.

Davey is undefeated in 32 pro fights.

Williams was a pathetic sight as Davey battered him into helplessness. Ike was slow and showed no semblance of former championship class at any stage of the one-sided bout. Davey, boxing masterfully, won all five rounds.

Each weighed 145 pounds, two under the welterweight limit.

Matwomen May Regain Crowds

A sharp attendance decline since the weekly shows were moved to the Victoria Ballroom has undoubtedly resulted in the first appearance in some time here of women wrestlers.

Promoter Nick Harris has announced that Ginger O'Hara, Portland, and Vancouver's Rory Palmer will wrestle in a special event on Friday's card.

Chief Thunderbird meets Swede Olson in the main event. The Great Zimba takes on Cal Roberts in the semi-windup, and Tyke Myren and Bing Quon tangle in the opening bout. The program starts at 8.30.

City All-Stars Rally to Win Bantam Honors

The Bantam All-Stars of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association captured the Vancouver Island bantam championship last night by defeating Nanaimo, 12-2, at Memorial Arena.

Victoria won the two-game total-goal series, 14-8, they lost the opener 6-2 at Nanaimo two weeks ago.

Dallas Lansdell led the Victoria attack with three goals and two assists while Robert Large picked up a pair of markers and passed for two more.

Royals Score, 3-2, In Opening Game But Cougars Good

By JIM EDDIE

NEW WESTMINSTER, March 26.—New Westminster's league-champion Royals, who finished the season 34 points ahead of Victoria Cougars, got the jump on the dethroned P.C.H.L. champions here tonight — but only after a tough struggle which indicated the best-of-seven semi-final series might be extended.

Three second-period goals proved enough as the Royals edged out a 3-2 victory in a fast, rugged game which produced excellent hockey for about 3,000 fans.

Second game of the series is scheduled for Victoria Friday, the third for New Westminster Saturday, and the fourth for Victoria next Tuesday. Dates of other games, if needed, will be announced later.

POWERS LENIENT

Play ranged from end to end almost continuously as referee Eddie Powers ruled leniently and whistles were few and far between. Tempers almost got out of hand several times but players, for the most part, stuck strictly to the business at hand.

The Cougars opened on the attack and held an edge during the first period, which saw rival coaches trying to jockey their forward lines around to best advantage. The Royals changed frequently in an apparent attempt to keep their top-scoring unit of Guyle Fielder, Gordie Fashoway and Bob Paul away from the attentions of Victoria's Doug Anderson-Les Hickey-Walt Atanas combination. The Royals were at least partially successful but it didn't matter. Their big three, particularly Fielder, had off nights and didn't even manage an assist.

ROYALS TAKE LEAD

First goal of the game came early in the second period. Goalie Jerry Cotnoir, who was steady and often good, blocked two shots, going down on the second. Ken Ullyot, who appeared to be in the crease at the time, barely managed to get the puck over the line.

A charging penalty for Fiori Goegan, first of two, set the stage for the first Victoria goal. Outplaying the Royals although shorthanded, the Cougars got back in the game when Bernie Strongman fed Leger a clearing pass and Andy Hebenton tore in to bang in the rebound of his coach's hard shot.

EVENS UP

But Goegan was still in the penalty box when Royals went ahead on a disputed goal. Jim Bedard picked up the puck at the point and his shot found its way into the net. The Cougars protested, with cause it seemed, that Jerry Cabana was interfering with Cotnoir but lost the argument.

What proved to be the winning goal came less than five minutes later after a face-off in the Victoria zone. Bob Love got the draw and passed back to Bob Bergeron who fed to Butch Houle. A sizzling slap shot gave Cotnoir no chance.

MISSED CHANCE

Cougars pressed from the start of the final period and missed enough chances in the first five minutes to have put it beyond doubt. Play was extremely fast at this point with only one face-off called for almost 10 minutes.

A power play put the Cougars close with less than six minutes left. Atanas got the puck at the side of the goal and passed back to Leger. Les Hickey blasted Leger's pass into the nets. But the Cougars could not beat Dechene again, Hebenton being outfluked on their best chance at 18 minutes. Royals kept control of the puck in the late stages and it wasn't until only 30 seconds were left that the Cougars got a chance to replace Cotnoir with a sixth attacker.

Victoria, Alberni Remain In School Hoop Meet; Mount View Loses, 37-34

By IAN GLENDAY

VANCOUVER, March 26.—Two Vancouver Island high schools posted decisive wins, another fell by the way, in the opening round of the British Columbia high school basketball tournament here at the U.B.C gym last night.

Alberni ran up the highest score of the day to swamp Gibsen's Landing 67-17, while Victoria High School Totems stayed in the running by dumping Oliver High, 34-28.

Only Mount View failed to win, losing a thrilling 37-34 overtime battle to Chilliwack.

It was a bitter pill to swallow for Mount View players. They jumped into an early lead but dropped behind at the half, 16-10. Mount View set a torrid pace in the third frame to hold a 25-22 edge going into the final frame. However, it took a basket in the last three minutes by Allan Snowsell to knot the count for the losers. Then the mainlanders took over in the eight-minute overtime quarter to outscore the visitors by three points and grab the win.

Allen Snowsell paced losers with 13 points.

TOTEMS HAVE TROUBLE

Oliver gave the Totems plenty of trouble before bowing out. Vic. High ran up a big lead in the opening minutes and held a 20-14 edge at the half. A quick scoring burst by Oliver put them back in the game and the two squads were tied 24-24 going into the final canto. Totems racked up six straight points in the closing minutes and stalled effectively until the final whistle.

Jim Jahraus was the big gun for the city students, dumping in 14 points and playing a strong defensive game.

ALBERNI BREEZES IN

Alberni had little trouble with Gibsen's Landing, opening up a big lead and scoring at will. Ron Gray potted 26 points for the winners, the biggest total of the day.

Other results were: Duke of Connaught 58, Burnaby South 39; Powell River 32, Creston 20; Delta 28, Grand Forks 20; Mission 44, Kamloops 35; Trapp Tech. 44, Lord Tweedsmuir 28.

Today's draw pits Alberni against Powell River, Victoria High against Chilliwack and Mount View against Oliver. The tournament favorites, Duke of Connaught, tangle with Delta, while the highly-regarded Trapp Tech. quintet clashes with Mission. Creston meets Gibsen's Landing, Grand Forks plays South Burnaby and Kamloops takes on Lord Tweedsmuir.

Council Backs Alberni Club In Tax Protest

ALBERNI, B.C., March 26 (CP)—The city council has decided to back the Alberni Athletic Basketball Club in its protest against collection of amusement tax from gate receipts of strictly amateur sports events.

Alderman Fred Bishop, manager of the Alberni Athletic senior "A" men's team, told the council last night that the provincial government taxation department has been notified the club intends to withhold the tax unless forced to make payment.

He said members of the club feel collection of the tax is unfair in cases where gates from amateur sports events provide the funds for promotion of athletics among young people of the community.

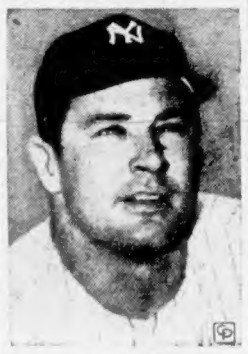
Last Chance



JOE PAGE

Much can happen in three years and no one realizes this better than one-time southpaw star of New York Yankees, known as "the gay reliever" when he was best relief pitcher in baseball. Page, who earned more than $30,000 in his best year, is giving it one more chance at 34. But he is no longer connected with Yankee organization and will make his comeback try with Syracuse.

Speaking Briefly

Manager Dick Adams and five players, including infielder Buddy Hjelmas, arrived yesterday at Omak, Wash., site of Wenatchee Chiefs' training camp.

New York Yankees yesterday sold infielder Gene Mauch, drafted from Milwaukee, to St. Louis Cardinals for $10,000 waiver price.

Seventh Retriever Trials Promises to Be Standout

PARKSVILLE, March 26. — Bigger and better than ever is the prediction for the seventh annual International Retriever Trials to be held at Parksville flats on April 26 and 27, under sponsorship of Parksville Fish and Game Association.

All indications so far point to a heavy entry list, particularly in the Vancouver Island handlers' only event. Judging from enquiries to date, there will be entries from Victoria alone and a number of dogs from other Island points. Spectators may have the opportunity of seeing a rare German Weimaraner in action, if N. B. Scott of Countenay decides to enter his prize dog in the trials.

R. M. Abernethy of Vancouver will represent the Mainland as a judge and a top-ranking licensed judge has been promised from Seattle. The Island judge has not yet been named.

TO MAKE LAKE

An innovation this year will be the building of a holding-dam in the slough to provide a small inland lake which should give more uniform tests for the dogs. Previous years much difficulty has been experienced with tide conditions.

An attendance prize at the trials will be a 12-gauge Model 12 Winchester pump gun.

LIST OFFICIALS

Field-trial chairman is James B. Washington and field-trial secretary is Norman Tyson, assisted by J. E. Kingsley and Washington. Game club president Larry Ormond will preside over events and committee members are as follows: Entries, N. Tyson; field marshal, W. Shelly; boats, E. H. Rawlins; birds, B. Banks; trophies, L. Ormond; accommodation, P. Bass; captain of guns, F. Banks; advertising, J. Daniels; dam construction, W. Shelly and D. Krog; entertainment, Washington, Ormond and Bass. Dr. W. G. Moore of Nanaimo will be veterinarian.

Friday evening, April 25, there will be a pre-trial smorgasbord supper for visiting dog owners and handlers, fish and game club members and friends, at the Island Hall Hotel. As in the past, a large number of visitors from the United States and Mainland points are anticipated.

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

Here is an excellent picture of a good golf swing shown from the back. I asked the artist to picture the shot this way, so that you could see the height of the hands at the top of the backswing and observe that the right elbow is close into the side. Both hands are under the shaft. Never let that right elbow get away from your body and point out to the back. The right elbow should be close in to your side and under the shaft. The grip with both hands must be closed and maintained this way throughout the back and down swings. The tendency to let go with your left hand at the top of the swing is strong. You must resist that tendency and keep that left hand closed. The distance which our pictured player has swung his clubhead below the horizontal is the maximum any player should use. In a mistaken effort to get power some players swing further below the horizontal than shown. But it is almost inevitably at the expense of accuracy. Strive for accuracy always rather than power.

Newspaper Claims Cleveland 'On Verge' of Joining N.H.L.

CLEVELAND, March 26 (AP)—Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League are on "the verge" of moving into the National Hockey League, The Cleveland News reports today.

Geoffrey Fisher, the paper's hockey writer, says five of the N.H.L.'s six clubs have given approval to adding the Barons. The club supposed to be holding out was not named.

Jim Hendy, Barons' general manager, had no comment except to say that the club's owners would like to be in the N.H.L.

President Clarence Campbell of the N.H.L., in Detroit for the Stanley Cup playoffs, said there is "nothing to support" the immediate addition of Cleveland.

"Of course that's been in the wind for a long time," said Campbell. "But I haven't the faintest clue from any of the clubs about any immediate action. Haven't heard from any of them recently regarding it."

Dechene Top Goalkeeper; Just Misses New Record

Although he barely failed to crack his own record of 2.82, Lucien Dechene again led P.C.H.L. goalkeepers this season by holding opponents to an average of 2.84 goals a game.

The portly netminder failed by four goals in his attempt to lower his goal average and much of the blame goes to Victoria Cougars, who twice managed to get seven pucks behind him, and beat him five times in one game on two occasions. The 7-3 drubbing handed out last Friday ruined Dechene's chances. Had he held the Cougars to four goals he would have wound up with an average of 2.80.

Lorne Worsley, diminutive Saskatoon net guardian, finished next to Dechene with 3.07, followed, in order, by Edmonton's Bill Brennan and Tacoma's Doug Stevenson. Dechene and Worsley shared a league record with five shutouts apiece while Seattle's Nelson Little was charged with 39 of the 113 minutes in penalties meted out to goalies.

Giants Hit Hard for Seventh in Row; White Sox Best Indians; Garver Good

For the second straight day the New York Giants spotted the Chicago Cubs four runs, then rallied to beat them, 9-6, in a spring training exhibition baseball game at Phoenix yesterday.

"It was the seventh victory in a row for the Nitional League champions who now have won 11 out of 18 games. The Giants hammered out 15 hits with Bobby Thompson, Alvin Dark and Whitey Lockman contributing homers. For the Cubs, veteran Ron Northey homered with one on off Sal Maglie. They were the first runs allowed by Maglie in 20 innings.

TWO GIANTS HURT

The Giants had a rough time in the injury department. Rookie second-baseman Ronnie Samford suffered a compound fracture of the nose when hit by a batted ball during infield practise. Starting pitcher Dave Koslo was struck on the left leg just above the ankle in the second inning and had to retire, and Monte Irvin suffered a bruised shin while trying to steal home in the third and also had to leave the game.

SOX IN RALLY

The Chicago White Sox exploded with five runs in the ninth inning to whip Cleveland Indians, 8-5. Rookie George Wilson provided the winning runs with a three-run homer. The best pitching in the game was provided by Chicago's Chuck Stobbs, who hurled a two-hit shutout in his five-inning stint, and Cleveland's starter Bob Feller who shut out the Sox on three hits the first four innings.

Ned Garver pitched five scoreless innings as the St. Louis Browns defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2. The Pirates outhit the Brownies 9-6 but couldn't put their hits together until the ninth. One of the Buc hits was a single by Ralph Kiner, who has been out of action three days because of a flu attack.

The Baltimore Orioles pounced on Joe Coleman for four singles, a double and a walk, good for all their runs, in the fourth inning to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-3.

Store Officials Admit Merger Talks

TORONTO, March 26 (CP).—A Toronto newspaper says that officials of Sears, Roebuck & Company of Chicago stated today that they had held preliminary discussions with Simpson's, Ltd., of Toronto, but that "we have not been together long enough to do a great deal."

The Toronto report quotes J. R. O'Hara, assistant to Fowler B. McConnell, president of Sears, as stating that "There will be further discussions" but that he thought "it will be some time before these take place."

C. L. Burton, chairman of the board of Simpson's Ltd., said that discussions have taken place with Sears Roebuck "looking toward possible joint future developments in the Canadian field."

Mr. Burton added, however, that "these matters are still under discussion," and that they "do not involve the sale of any shares of Simpsons, Ltd."

It has been known for some time that a United States firm has been interested in the future of Simpson's Ltd., which is one of Canada's more important department stores and mail order businesses.

REPORTED EARLIER

Earlier this week it was reported that officials of Sears Roebuck had been paying visits to the Simpson's Ltd. headquarters in Toronto.

It was then believed that a purchase of Simpson's Ltd. was indicated, but the later assurances from Mr. Burton are that the control of the firm will not change.

It is assumed that any new money coming into Simpson's would be, in large part, for expansion purposes.

Simpson's issues made strong gains on the Toronto Stock Exchange when the reports were first circulated, but have since retreated somewhat from their high ground.

Pullets, Owners Should See Eye to Eye

A government poultryman at Saanichton has come up with two theories aimed at stepping up the egg production of Canadian poultry—reported declining on a per hen basis over the past four years.

Looking your chickens in the eye and getting tough with those cute little baby chicks may be part of the answer to the problem, R. A. Sansbury said.

The eye-to-eye act is a method of culling ready-to-lay pullets which is now being adopted by poultrymen across Canada.

Experiments to determine the value of the look in a chicken's eye and the condition of the eye as an index to the bird's health have been carried out for six years.

TECHNICAL ANGLES

There are technical angles, of interest only to the laymen, but even people whose closest approach to a chicken is ham and eggs for breakfast, can appreciate the summary.

The recommendation is to keep only those pullets which have eyes with bright pupils, clear, round and distinct, with a reddish or light bay color. With breeding flocks the rule proves the color of a hen's eye can mean more eggs on Canadian tables.

Tougher treatment for incubator-hatched chicks is also recommended by the expert. So far only one experiment has been carried out and the results are regarded to date "as an indication."

But rated as best layers with a mortality rate of only one out of 50 are chickens raised under conditions roughly paralleling the life of an Eskimo.

They were placed in a cold storage room at the age of one-day. Temperature was 33 degrees. Common practice is to hothouse the chicks at 70 degrees.

SPOT OF HEAT

A small spot of heat was provided in the centre of the room and the chicks could head for that when they got too chilly.

The tough chick experiment, indicating brooder houses are generally kept too warm, was summed up by Mr. Sansbury.

"They need a spot for a quick warm-up in nature provided by the mother hen," he said. "But she doesn't guarantee a constant temperature of 70 degrees outside the shelter of her wings."

Slag Source Of Uranium

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—South Africa "within a few months" will begin producing uranium from gold mine slag heaps, a British supply ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

He told a reporter that Britain is nearly doubling its investment in the joint British U.S. and South African plan for the next fiscal year starting April 1.

He was later taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for further observation.

Prorogation of House Marks End of Coalition's Reign

A historic phase in British Columbia parliamentary history ended yesterday with the prorogation of the provincial Legislature.

It marked the end of the coalition government formed in 1941 by Liberals and Progressive Conservatives against the then growing power of the CCF and its Socialistic program.

Premier Byron Johnson who forced the divorce of the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives Jan. 18, is expected to dissolve the Legislature shortly, and an [illegible] has been forecast for mid June.

The House was prorogued by Lieutenant-Governor [illegible] Wallace after 27 days of sittings. Only 49 bills were adopted, the smallest number in the history of the Legislature.

Included was legislation permitting manufacturers to color margarine, an issue that has been before the legislators at each session since 1948. An hour after the bill was given Royal Assent, colored margarine was on sale in retail stores.

ENDS IN BATTLE

The session ended in controversy, a battle over extension of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Premier Johnson [illegible] a $3,000,000 [illegible] from [illegible] mish to Vancouver, a distance of 30 miles, along the [illegible] Burrard Inlet. [illegible] extension at this time.

The highway [illegible] with the terminus of the PGE at Squamish, and the [illegible] be trucked to Vancouver. Now it comes in barge. He said a [illegible] extension would cost $1,000,000.

Herbert Anscomb, leader of the Progressive Conservative opposition, and his colleague, CCF leader Harold Winch, [illegible] the railway were voted down.

Mr. Johnson said it was [illegible] vital to connect the PGE [illegible] from Squamish to Prince George. [illegible] offers it will [illegible] the CCF. He said [illegible] as well for cars.

A record budget of $142,000,000 for the [illegible] was approved during the session and the House passed a new federal-provincial tax rental agreement which will bring B.C. $50,000,000 this year.

The House also passed a bill in the final hours increasing payments under the Workmen's Compensation Act. The allowances for widows and orphans will be increased at an annual cost of $600,000.

The final business session ended at 2 a.m. and the sleepy legislators returned to the House at 11 a.m. for the prorogation [illegible]

RECORD BUDGET

The election announcement [illegible] speech from the throne at the opening of the House Feb. 13, followed the breakup of the Coalition government Jan. 18.

Mr. Anscomb, then finance minister and co-chief in coalition, resigned from the cabinet at the demand of Premier Johnson. Other Progressive Conservatives in the cabinet resigned with Mr. Anscomb.

The Progressive Conservatives were designated as the official opposition, replacing the eight-member CCF bloc.

Mr. Anscomb's resignation was demanded in a dispute over publication of the Dominion provincial taxation agreement. Premier Johnson charged it had been made public by Mr. Anscomb before it had been placed before the cabinet for approval.

The last general election was in 1949 when the Coalition government was returned to office. Mr. Johnson has been premier since 1947 when he succeeded John Hart, who retired.

In the 48-seat House the Liberals had 23 seats, Progressive Conservatives 11, CCF 8, Coalitionists 3, independent 2, Labor 1.

High School Plays Take Mature Turn

The days of school drama (sex) vais being confined to fairy tales and "nice little plays" about boys and girls has passed.

Love marriage and the call of nature to kindred souls was portrayed by high school actors at the Victoria Schools Drama Festival where all the actors were veterans, at Victoria High School last night.

"Sunday Costs Five Pesos" the first of three one-act plays and presented by Central Junior High School, concerned the stormy life of a Mexican couple who both want to get married but have a rather difficult time getting around to it.

Leona Johnson and John Sawyer taking the leading roles of Berta Cantu and Fidel Duran argued and laughed shouted at one another and made up in a most realistic manner.

A hair pulling scene in which Bernice Pluym and Adeline Chirhaywen taking the parts of Simone Molina and Celestina Garcia do battle over the love affair of Berta and Fidel was so well done gasps of delight followed by roars of laughter from the audience drowned out all dialogue from the stage.

The second story on the program "Heaven on Earth" presented by Mount Douglas High School was something of a surprise to the large audience. It was also the crowning light of the evening.

TWO YOUNG LOVERS

The plot revolved about two young lovers Jill Hubbard and Adrian Ledge played by Heather Munson and Albert Wardle who have become so impressed with marriage they decide to wait and convention aside.

Adrian convinces Jill to come away and live with him without the benefit of the clergy.

Jill tells her parents played by Margaret Stevenson and Ralph Russell and much to her surprise they agree and even decide to break up their own marriage.

Jill is so shocked at this that she tosses Adrian out instead of fort to save the family name.

The parents then admit the whole thing was a farce to make her see the light and all is well again.

"The Courting of Marie Jenvrin" by South Saanich High School dealt with the troubles and tribulations of a French Canadian girl in Yellowknife.

Marie played by Mary Watson, couldn't quite make up her mind which of her admirers to marry finally finds her true love in the man she thought she detested most.

After a spanking passed out by Michael Lorrigan played by Bill Fleming and some water throwing on the part of Marie the village priest, played by Neil Barraclough manages to make the peace and the couple pledge their troth.

JUNIOR GRADES

The afternoon program was devoted solely to the junior grades, one two and three.

Cordova Bay School presented "The Chocolate Soldier and the Sweetmeat Chick."

Adjudicator Jack Thorne complimented the school on its fine costuming and scenery. Mrs. Grace H. Watson was director.

A one-act play dealing with the unhappy lot of the modern school boy as compared to his counterpart in the time of Sir Walter Raleigh entitled "Carpe Diem" was presented by Norfolk House School.

Here again, the adjudicator complimented the school on its attractive settings and good direction by Mrs. Margaret Manson.

Skilfull make up and fine costumes were the highlight of "The Boy Abe" a story of young Abraham Lincoln by South Park School with Mr. Acheson W. N. Lucey director.

The festival will be continued today at Oakcrest School at 2 p.m. and at Oak Bay High School at 8 p.m. with plays from junior high schools, Norah Wilson's Home, Saint Michael's and Victoria High which is being presented.

High Popularity Awaits Neat Traveler

Eriberto Fino, a neat and polished traveler from Turin, Italy, is likely to find himself popular beyond his expectations while he stays in Victoria.

He has only to produce his business card to win the gracious Canadian faces. The card says "Eriberto Fino, proxy of Martini & Rossi."

Traveling in vermouth and other products of the vintner is a cheery business indeed. He has discovered. The firm has sent him all through Europe and Scandinavia, and he has just completed a tour of Canada.

"You must be glad to be a Canadian," he tells Victorians.

"In 50 years this will be the richest country in the world," he insists. "All you need now are more factories and more people. You have everything else."

Europeans speak of Canada frequently, he says. "It is growing up and growing rich, so my boss said this time I should travel to Canada."

FROM SEA TO SEA

He has seen Canada from sea to sea in the last two months. He will leave Victoria, and the Empress Hotel room, on Saturday, after talking to the Liquor Control Board.

With European prudence he refrains from checking over the liquor laws. After all, it is the law of your country, he shrugs.

But he admits the liquor laws are something funny to Europeans.

Life is not so different here than in Italy, at least to look at he finds. He misses real Italian cooking, finds the weather cooler and a bit more uncomfortable.

Only difference he sees on the street is that men in this country wear brighter ties than they do in Europe.

And women? He shrugs, turning his palms upward and outspread. "What can you say about women's fashions?" I expect to go home at Easter and find my wife dressed in some completely different and new way," he smiles.

POWERFUL SYSTEM

LONDON (CP) — The Anglo-United States council on productivity will study Britain's electricity system, considered among the world's best.

Island Daffodils To Fly East Soon

About 1,200 boxes of daffodils will leave Victoria over four days prior to Easter week-end, growers reported yesterday.

The boxes, each containing about 35 dozen blooms, will be flown by Trans-Canada Airlines direct from the Island to Toronto for retail distribution.

Growers added however, their plans depend entirely on good weather to permit them to pick the eastern market.

Retail price of the blooms is expected to be 10 cents a bloom.

HE'S FED UP

SHREWSBURY, Eng. (CP) — A headmaster of a boys' school here was critical of "progressive" trends in education. He said at the annual speech day he wonders whether new schools will have built-in dog-racing tracks and electronic machines to help in filling out coupons for football pools.

Session's End Sees Success, Failure, Retirements

End of fourth session of 22nd Legislature yesterday brought big victory for Mrs. Tilly Rolston, Independent M.L.A. from Vancouver-Point Grey. Just before prorogation Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace gave Royal Assent to her bill to permit factory coloring of margarine. Chief opponent of colored margarine throughout session has been Alex Hope (P.C., Delta), spokesman for Fraser Valley cattlemen. Mr. Hope, a good loser, congratulates Mrs. Rolston on her success.

Two M.L.A.'s who have no worries about whether they will be returned to the House in the June election are shown chatting after prorogation. They are Tom King (L., Golden), left, and George Pearson (L., New Westminster). The two veteran legislators have announced they will not seek reelection. Liberal members of the House yesterday presented Mr. Pearson with a new cane, Mr. King with a silver bowl. Mr. Pearson, long-time cabinet minister, has been in ill-health for some time. Mr. King intends to give more time to his business.

House Deals Briefly With Buttle Question

[illegible]

The House passed the bill, [illegible] its advanced form.

[illegible] that the House [illegible] intervene in the matter [illegible] the stubborn course of action by Mr. Kenney and sympathy to the cabinet if Mr. Kenney dismissed the first appeal.

By the time Buttle Lake came up for discussion at the end of a long legislative day and in the dying hours of a five-week session, most M.L.A.'s seemed to have lost interest in the subject.

SPOKE IN FAVOR

Several Island members spoke in favor of draining the lake. They included Capt. D. L. Protheroe (L., Victoria), Mr. Ash, Frank Mitchell (C.C.F., Esquimalt), H. L. Welch (Coal, Comox) and Andrew Wheeler (L., Cowichan-Newcastle).

Mr. Wheeler said he wished [illegible] because the government had failed to provide [illegible] information on the matter. He also felt [illegible] should be postponed [illegible] at the end of the session.

Minister Gordon [illegible] was [illegible] that passage of Mr. [illegible] would not [illegible] the government [illegible] of draining Buttle Lake.

But he added it meant the House [illegible] the question [illegible] of the political affairs.

The amendment was passed on a voice vote shortly before 1:30 a.m.

First Woman Air Attache To Canada to Visit City

Miss Claire Wilson, the first woman to head the United States post of civil air attache to Canada, will visit Victoria April 4.

She is making a tour of Royal Canadian Flying Clubs in western Canada and while in Victoria she will be the guest of Victoria Flying Club, a member of the senior organization.

Miss Wilson will be met at Vancouver by Victoria club president Claude Butler and flown by private plane to Patricia Bay about 2:45 p.m. On arrival at the airport she will inspect club facilities before being entertained in Victoria.

Miss Wilson took over her post in Ottawa early in 1950. Although not a pilot herself, she continued to have found time to learn flying. Miss Wilson has been intimately associated with aviation for a long period.

She transferred to the civil air attache office in London in 1944, helping to open the state department's first civil air attaches office. During six years in the British capital she became assistant to the attache.

Her duties are to interpret United States aviation regulations and explain the air policies of the U.S. report to the state department and other government departments on aviation policies and activities of Canada.

She also is required to render state department opinions on aviation treaties and arrangements between the U.S. and Canada.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

Lovely eyes deserve lovely eyebrows and lashes, just as a pretty picture should be framed most attractively. Many women in their desire for long luxurious lashes often forget the important place of the eyebrows, and do little or nothing about them. A little weeding and a bit of a trim for those too-slight brows that no one notices.

Your eyebrows should be shaped and arched to follow the natural lines of the bone structure over the eyes. Tweeze them carefully but don't be over zealous. Just remove enough stray hairs to give yourself a well-groomed appearance. Take out the stragglers in the centre and underneath if this is all that is necessary. Don't experiment with exotic lines if you wish to try something different use a pencil so that you can remove the results when they are not what you wish. You can easily build up your brow line or extend it with a pencil.

Sometimes the eyebrows are shaped well enough but they are so light they cannot be seen from [illegible] a few feet away. When this is your difficulty it may be wise to darken them with an eye crayon or with a bit of mascara or the same brush you use for your lashes.

After your face powder has been applied comb your brows upward and then smooth them into place. Former Helen Baird Tells About Visit to Hong Kong

"Living in Hong Kong is somewhat like living on top of a volcano," writes Mrs. Arnold Ingram, the former Helen Baird of Victoria, who visited the British settlement recently.

For the last 18 months Mrs. Ingram has been residing on Okinawa where her husband is stationed with Morrison-Knudsen International Engineering Company. She flew to Hong Kong by way of Formosa and returned by the same route.

"As usual nothing seems to bother the British," she says, "but the Chinese are very nervous, particularly those that either came out of Shanghai or had to live there during the occupation. There are so many people there that literally ran out of Shanghai either hours or minutes ahead of the Communists and a lot of them still have prices on their heads.

"There is a small American colony and most of them are jittery, especially those with children. A lot of the Chinese are going to South America.

"As you know a lot of people work in Hong Hong and live either up on the Peak on the Hong Kong side or on the Kowloon side which is a ten-minute ferry ride. One American girl I met is so nervous she is afraid to go over to Hong Kong at night to a party and leave her children on the other side.

"Hong Kong is beautiful and jam packed. The population has almost tripled due to refugees of all nationalities plus the people who came out of Shanghai. They have some beautiful modern houses and apartment blocks but rents are prohibitive. One couple I met had come across a house they wanted to rent until they discovered the landlord wanted $5,000 (U.S.) key money and $350 (U.S.) per month.

"The traffic is terrific—double deck buses and double-deck street cars and of course they all drive on the 'wrong' side of the street.

"What a fabulous race track they have and so comfortable compared to the old Willows! There are several clubs and bars there, a cafeteria and a couple of dining rooms. We had lunch at one of the clubs. Just outside in the halls they have wickets and pay booths so it is made easy for you to lose your money. The horses of course run the 'wrong' way also.

"Going out to Aberdeen was quite an experience. You drive so far, then take a sampan out to a floating restaurant. There they have all kinds of live fish. You pick out your own fish and they cook it for you. Only drawback is you must eat with chopsticks.

"The hotel was very comfortable with a huge room with wide verandah overlooking the bay. Then there was the shopping. What a shopper's paradise Hong Kong is.

"At Formosa they were very stuffy. When we landed after having to draw the curtains on the way in, two officials covered with gold braid boarded the plane. They counted heads, looked us all over, then lined up those getting off and counted them. After they let them off they came back and counted us again. Then they told us we couldn't get off!

"The plane finally got so hot they roped off a small area underneath, posted guards all around it and let us stand there. Coming back we went through the same routine."

Duncan I.W.A. Local Third Largest

Duncan's Local 180 of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) is the third largest in the union according to a report in an I.W.A. publication.

The local had an average membership of 1,600 during 1951 an increase from the preceding year of 500 members. A $15,000 surplus was recorded during the year, which was distributed to a new death benefit fund account and other accounts.

[illegible] larger than the Duncan organization, two urban locals on the lower mainland the report said.

During the past year the local also had a reduction of the accident frequency rate, the report added.

Annual report of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at Ottawa holds little good news for the Carpenters' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) and contractors.

The report predicts that the drop in house building is likely to continue. The report said that 85,000 housing units were completed in Canada during 1951 a slight drop from the previous year.

The drop was attributed to a shortage of mortgage funds and serviced land and larger down payments required. Also given as causes for the slower building were construction costs estimated to have been 15 per cent higher last year than in 1950 and 18 per cent increases in [illegible] costs and a nine per cent increase in labor costs.

A report on exact requirements in financing a home is expected to be given soon to Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.). The subject was discussed recently by the council.

Beef cattle growers and game department representatives will meet Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman today, it was announced yesterday.

Devious Use of U.N. Suspected

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) March 26.—Some officials high in the United Nations hierarchy are worried that the Soviet Union is using the U.N. as a training ground to teach fledging diplomats English and the ways of the western world.

These officials point out the average work span of the ordinary Russian on the secretariat staff is about two years. Then he is recalled to Moscow, but about the time he has learned English and is becoming partially useful in the U.N. administrative setup.

The practice, they say, is for a Russian who has been here about two years to close his desk at the end of a week and disappear. The next news from him is his letter of resignation—after he arrives, has started back to Russia.

In a short while another Russian who cannot speak English and whose background is unknown to the U.N. arrives to work on the secretariat. He is given a place, the U.N. spends time trying to see where he fits and teach him English, and the process is repeated.

Other nationals remain at the U.N. much longer. Some have been here from the start. Some Russians have been here more than two years but 24 months is the average.

There are 25 Russians on the payroll at U.N. headquarters and 13 in overseas offices. That number remains fairly constant.

Each country is asked to furnish workers on the percentage of payment of U.N. dues. The Russians are entitled to more than 25 but they never run over that figure.

Since the U.N. began operations in 1946, 38 Russians have come here, worked for a time and returned home. The top man in that turnover was Arkadi A. Sobolev, the first assistant secretary general for security Council affairs, who has since become ambassador to Poland.

Sobolev returned to Moscow in January, 1949, pleading illness in his family. He was replaced by Constantin F. Zinchenko, a young Russian diplomat.

Zinchenko, who holds the post like the other seven assistant secretaries-general, [illegible] gets a gross salary of $[illegible] [illegible] Besides, [illegible] of [illegible] and expense a[illegible] range ranging from $7,000 to $10,000 [illegible].

Toll Reported For Accidents In Lumbering

Twelve fatalities and 1,352 injuries for the B.C. lumber industry in the first two months of 1952 have been reported by the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Logging was responsible for nine of the deaths and 329 of the injuries. Accidents in mills accounted for three deaths and 328 injuries.

Slipping and falling were the main causes of accidents in both branches of the industry. Axe and saw cuts were listed next.

U.K. Officials Threatened

LONDON, March 26 (Reuters).—Police guarded the London homes of a former diplomat and a leading medical expert Tuesday night after they received telephone threats that they would be murdered. Sir Reginald Hoare, British minister in Iran from 1931 to 1941 and now a banker, and Sir John Charles, chief medical officer to the education and health ministries and the Home Office, were told they would be killed unless they left Britain within 24 hours.

Tunisian Premier Jailed; Martial Law Proclaimed

TUNIS, March 26 (AP) — French authorities today clamped martial law on troubled Tunisia after arresting Premier Mohammed Chenik and three of his pro-Nationalist ministers. The protectorate's 3 million Moslems were placed under dawn-to-dusk curfew.

The curfew virtually isolated this turbulent North African country where nearly 100 persons have died in three months of violence sparked by Tunisia's demands for freedom from French rule.

The military enforced rigid censorship of all news inside the country. A ban of outdoor assemblies was also imposed. The army commander, Gen. Pierre Garbay, ordered the death penalty for breaches of security.

The 62-year-old Chenik and his [illegible] desert. French security forces also seized several key members of the National Neo-Destour party. These included the party leader, Habib Bourgiba.

Moslems in Tunis promptly went on strike.

French armor and cavalry patrolled the capital. France has more than 20,000 police and soldiers in Tunisia to keep order.

Minor incidents developed at several points. Shots were fired at a police patrol and an army sentinel in the city of Sousse but no one was reported injured. A bridge on the road between Kairouan and F. Hammam was blown up.

Fighter Planes Move Carrier

FREMANTLE, West Australia, March 26 (Reuters) — Six fighter planes harnessed at each end of the flight deck were used to move the Australian aircraft carrier "Sydney" away from a wharf here when a strike deprived her of tugs. The fighter pilots gunned the engines of their moored planes. The carrier slowly moved out into the bay.

South Africa Raises Tax Levies, Cuts Imports

CAPETOWN, March 26 (CP) — Finance Minister Nicholas Havenga today announced tax increases on beer, tobacco, telephones, chocolate, movies and diamonds to overcome a £24,000,000 deficit in South Africa's 1952-53 budget.

Havenga presented to parliament a budget which taxes beer one penny more a pint, adds sixpence a pound duty on tobacco and increases telephone rentals from [illegible] to [illegible].

There will be a new duty of sixpence a pound on all sweets and chocolates made in the country, and the customs duty on all motion pictures [illegible] will be raised by fourpence a foot.

In addition the normal tax on all industrial, commercial and [illegible] companies [illegible] increased by sixpence on every pound of taxable income. The rate of taxation of diamond mines will go up from [illegible] a pound of taxable income.

The "cheap money" era has ended, Havenga said. Because of borrowing by the government, interest rates are being raised generally [illegible] one-half per cent. The Reserve Bank [illegible] rate today was raised [illegible] per cent.

The budget estimated total revenue for 1952-53 at £267,000,000.

In spelling up the stringent steps, Havenga said the drain on the country's reserves of foreign exchange [illegible] from the [illegible] of gold to the Bank of England.

He said there was little [illegible] that the country's economy would be dislocated by [illegible] imports [illegible] Financial experts estimate that the reduction would [illegible] the country's import bill of consumer goods by about 25 per cent.

Total foreign exchange available for imports during 1952 will be [illegible], he said, adding that the import cut was [illegible] to be urgent at the expense of local industries.

Bookkeeper Confesses Theft

[illegible] — Police announced Tuesday night that Paul Baer, 25, a bookkeeper, has signed a confession admitting he took part in the theft of more than $170,000 in cash from a Reading widow last week end. The statement said $85,258 found Monday in a box behind the stairs where Baer worked was exactly half of the total taken from the home of Mrs. Helen M. Bidden. Police are searching for an accomplice who Baer said, got the remainder of the money.

Jury Unable To Classify Man's Death

VANCOUVER, March 26 (CP) — A coroner's jury today refused to classify the death of a 70-year-old man in any of the usual categories — accidental, suicidal, homicidal or misadventure.

Despite pointed direction from three times by coroner J. D. Whitbread, the six male jurors termed the death of Michael Thomas Mahoney only an "unnatural death."

Mahoney, an old age pensioner, suffered second and third-degree burns to 40 per cent of the front of his body March 15 in the Heather street annex of Vancouver General Hospital.

He died March 22 apparently of [illegible] set fire to some papers from a waste receptacle [illegible] ignited his [illegible].

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG, March 26 (CP).—Prices were somewhat irregular today on the Winnipeg grain exchange, with rye and flax advancing and oats and barley losing early gains to generally record small losses at the close.

Upturns in United States markets were reflected here in early trade. However, when the American markets turned lower, the local market sold off.

Commercial demand again was thin, with shippers taking oats and buying for American account coming into flax and rye.

Trading was dull for the most part but speeded up towards the close.

No information was available on export wheat loadings. Class two wheat and I.W.A. prices were down one-quarter cent from yesterday.

Top Mining Firm May Enter Oil Field

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Interesting events may accrue from the decision of Frobisher Ltd. to ask its shareholders to approve at a special general meeting April 5, the increase of the company's authorized capital from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 shares.

Sound sources of information suggest that the increase may mark the introduction of one of Canada's greatest mining companies into the oil exploration and development field.

The rumor is that Frobisher will provide the capital to go 50-50 with Federated Petroleum in the development of that company's huge oil and gas land holdings in the Williston Basin in Saskatchewan and the United States.

Frobisher officials refused yesterday to confirm or deny the story that they were going into the Williston Basin, but their president, Thayer Lindsley, one of Canada's great mining figures, said that he proposed increases in Frobisher capital was needed to finance, in the near future, projects in which the company is interested.

"The stock remaining in the treasury is inadequate for the purpose," he said.

Frobisher has outstanding 4,638,956 of its 5,000,000 shares and of these Ventures Ltd. holds 2,475,691.

It is significant that both Federated and Frobisher shares have been extremely active in the past two weeks. Federated has run up from $8.90 to $11.50 and Frobisher from $4.70 to $6.60.

CONTROL FIGURE DOUBTED

Members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria very much doubt the authenticity of Labor Minister John Cates' estimate that about 50 per cent of private, rented residences in the province are under rent control

"We feel that the figure is very much smaller, and that the continuation of this control about the only wartime measure left—is imposing a severe hardship on a small percentage of property owners," said one realtor.

MORE FOOD SOLD

The largest wholesaler of food in the North American continent is Pacific Gamble Robinson, of which A. P. Slade Ltd. of Victoria is a subsidiary.

In the annual report issued this week, P.G.R. reports that its volume of sales reached the huge total of $160,603,783, which is a record for the company and 4 per cent above the 1950 figure.

However, J. G. Scott, president, states that earnings of the company were substantially lower, reflecting the general trend throughout the food industry.

Additional profit from greater sales and a slightly higher margin of profit from certain commodities had not been sufficient to offset increased operating costs and higher U.S. and Canadian income taxes.

Net income was $1,294,523, equal to $1.32 per share, whereas the 1950 net income was $1,916,716 or $1.96 per share.

AS OTHERS SEE US

In this column we often say what we think about the United States. So here for a change is what a U.S. paper (Business Week) thinks about us.

It estimates that Canada will keep growing fast; expects a 25 to 30 million population by 1975

No sweeping redistribution of population is on the cards. The centre of gravity will be southern Ontario and southern Quebec — Canada's industrial heartland.

Emigration to the U.S. of young professional people is a serious problem

As Canada is the third-largest trading nation in the world a drop in demand for Canada's products would be serious

During February, new life insurance put into force by Canadians amounted to about $172,000,000. The British Columbia share of this was $11,785,000 giving the province third place to Ontario with $57,857,000 and Quebec with $34,421,000. Alberta came fourth with $9,581,000.

"BETTER CARS 3 MORE PEOPLE 4 LESS"

In 1816, a small boy, wending his way home along a lonely Kentucky road, suddenly spied a small, yellow dog with a badly injured foreleg. After applying a crudely fashioned splint to the animal's leg, the lad carried the dog home, and from that day on, boy and dog were inseparable. The following spring, both boy and dog suddenly disappeared. As search parties struggled through the rugged hills, they found the dog barking excitedly at the mouth of a small cave. A huge boulder had slid across the cavern opening, sealing the boy inside. When the rock was finally removed, the lad crawled out safe and sound. Thanks to the little mongrel he had befriended only a year before, this boy lived to lead his country through one of its greatest hours of peril. His name: Abraham Lincoln.

THANKS: Eugen Foster Tyson, Paris, Kentucky.

ARTIFICIAL DEPTH

GOSPORT, Eng. (CP). — The government has completed a 100-foot research column here which, when filled with water, exerts a pressure equal to 17 fathoms in the sea. Submarine crews will make controlled descents in tests of equipment.

London Council U.K. Tories' Aim

LONDON, March 26. — The Conservative political machine has swung into action again in an allout effort to gain control of the London County Council.

The council, which is responsible for the administration of the 117 square miles which make up the County of London, and the well-being of the 3,350,000 people who live in it has been dominated by Labor for the last 18 years, and the Tories are [illegible] in the next election, which will take place on April 3.

Every three years, 129 councillors, three for each of 43 constituencies, are elected and they, in their turn, elect 21 aldermen, either from among themselves, or from qualified persons outside.

Under L.C.C. ruling, aldermen retain their seats six years, half of them retiring every three years, when 10 or 11 new aldermen, as the case might be, are elected to take the place of those retiring.

At the last election, three years ago, 64 Labor candidates, 64 Tories and one Liberal were returned at the polls, the nearest the Conservatives have yet come to gaining control of the council.

ALL SOCIALISTS

Unhappily for them, the 10 aldermen left the last council, after 11 of their number had traditionally retired, were all socialists, which gave Labor enough of a majority to vote in a socialist chairman and six socialist aldermen out of the newly elected 11, so Labor kept control of the council.

On April 3, however, the 10 socialist aldermen who have been on the council for the last six years will have to retire and the Tories, coupling this with the fact that in some constituencies the last time their candidates lost by as few as 20 votes, are hoping to gain a working majority.

One main worry is the general apathy of Londoners, as a whole, toward the coming L.C.C. elections. Last time fewer 30 per cent of the 2,500,000 persons entitled to vote went to the polls.

Interest, which runs at fever pitch in the capital during the parliamentary elections, just can not be aroused for the county council polling, though it affects Londoners directly.

Tories are hoping to take advantage of this, however, and Conservative canvassers are being told to let non-Tory supporters strictly alone and not to try to persuade waverers, or half-hearted socialists, to vote Conservative, as they did in the general [illegible] to vote for their party. Instead canvassing teams have been instructed to mind certain that every Conservative voter gets to the polls, and, on the day of the election plans have been made to ensure that every Tory voter goes to the polls.

VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

The London County Council appoints committees to run the various departments for which it is responsible such as finance, education, health, welfare and children's committee, housing, restaurants, parks, etc. and employs a staff of more than 50,000 to help. This staff consists of permanent civil servants, and is not affected by the political color of the council.

It is on the committees that differences of opinion clash, and the Conservatives are making finance and education particular debating points. The council has a yearly surplus of £7,500,000 ($21,000,000), which the Tories say would enable them to reduce taxes by threepence in the pound while Labor contends that this is not possible and that the sum is just a comfortable margin.

Labor's policy of building huge schools to accommodate up to 2,000 children in which each pupil will concentrate gradually more and more on the particular subjects which suit best, is strongly opposed by the Conservatives, who say that it is mass education at its worst.

Some Tories are concerned lest the recent very unpopular rise in subway and streetcar fares in London will affect their chances, and great pains are being taken to point out that neither the government nor the L.C.C. is responsible for the capital's transport, which is run by an independent body.

While Labor and Conservative candidates are contesting all 129 seats in the coming election, 12 candidates also have been nominated by the Liberal Party; nine by the Communists, and six by the Union Movement, the last named a group which supports Sir Oswald Mosley; two independents also are standing.

Red Agents Smuggle Radar Sets

BERLIN, March 25 (NANA-Kemnewsi). — More than 8,000 sets of valuable radar equipment manufactured by a Dutch firm have been smuggled into the Russian zone of Germany to equip tanks and armed naval patrol boats of the eastern German undercover army and navy.

The radar gear was described by a Communist official in Berlin as irreplaceable, because similar equipment is not manufactured at all in Russia, or in other countries of eastern Europe. How it passed through the closely guarded frontier to the Russian zone, despite the Allied ban on strategic war materials, is a well-kept secret.

Intelligence sources report that 2,300 sets of the equipment have been sent to Rostock, Russian zone Baltic naval base. There they are to be fitted in naval patrol boats, which patrol the shores of eastern Germany, and help to stop anti-Communist refugees escaping to Sweden.

Of the remaining sets, 4,000 were sent to the closely guarded arsenals of the Russian zone's "people's police" in Saxony Anhalt and Mecklenburg for use in tanks. The rest are being stored in eastern Berlin.

Communist officials are boasting that though the Dutch firm manufacturing the radar equipment would not supply them, intermediaries were found who were willing to risk circumventing the western ban on vital exports to Russia and her satellites. Eastern German agents have visited western Europe six times during recent months to make purchases of "vital" equipment unobtainable in Russia or eastern Europe, the officials said.

Tips Given On Fighting Car Blaze

CHICAGO, March 26 (NANA). What do you do in case a fire breaks out in your automobile?

C. M. Rowley, chief fire prevention engineer for the Kemper group of insurance companies, [illegible] that 200,000 car [illegible] this year. Hundreds of drivers [illegible] that passengers will be injured and total property losses from fire and explosion will exceed $[illegible],000, according to Mr. Rowley.

To minimize the dangers, he cited the following fire-fighting procedures:

1. Have the car's fire extinguisher in good working order, and easy to reach.

2. Turn off the motor as soon as the fire is discovered. This stops the breeze from fan blades, halts gasoline pumping, and may be enough to put out a blaze in the electrical system.

3. Get everybody out and at least 50 feet away from the car. When you leave, don't forget the extinguisher.

4. Have someone call the fire department, even for what appears to be a small blaze.

5. Fight the fire with your back to the wind.

6. Always fight the fire from the outside. Never get in or under the car.

7. Get the blaze nearest the gasoline tank first. The less gasoline in the tank, the great er the danger of explosion.

8. Air out the interior, and be sure the cause of the fire is eliminated before restarting the motor.

If you have no extinguisher handy, Mr. Rowley said follow rules 2, 3 and 4 with special emphasis on the warning to keep at least 50 feet away from the burning car.

Allied Warships Ready For Blockade of China

TOKYO, March 27 (Thursday) (INS).—U.S. Secretary of Navy Dan A. Kimball was in Tokyo today for conferences with admirals who will tell him they have the power to blockade China if they get the orders.

Mr. Kimball made it clear in Taipeh Tuesday that if the Korean armistice talks fail, the admirals might get the orders.

It was apparent that an order to blockade the China coast would be a political event rivalling the Korean war itself in its impact on the course of Asian history. The risk of a formal and bigger war would be inherent in blockade.

In order to blockade China the American and Allied ships would have to:

1. Turn back Russian Polish and other Communist ships that now make the trip half-way around the world and through the Suez Canal to carry supplies to their Communist partner in China.

2. Risk attack by Russian submarines based in Asia.

3. Send patrol planes along the China coast within easy range of Communist jet fighters.

4. Operate small ships within [illegible].

the three-mile limit to intercept Chinese junks which carry the heavy load of transport for China's eastern provinces.

5. Possibly mine waters within three mils of the China shoreline.

NAVY CONFIDENT

The decision on whether to run these risks of war is a decision for the government to make, not the leaders of the fighting navy.

But tactically the navy is confident it can blockade China.

"We can do the job if we are ordered to do it" Rear Admiral Ralph A. Ofstie told International News Service today. Admiral Ofstie is filling in for Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy as commander of the American naval forces, Far East, while Admiral Joy is in Korea, as chief allied armistice delegate.

"Someone else, on the political level," continued Admiral Ofstie, "will have to make the decision, however, as to whether it would be worth the cost and worth the risk.

The blockade job would be two-sided. Ocean-going ships with cargoes from abroad would have to be stopped. That would be the easier part of the task.

More difficult would be the task of disrupting the traffic of junks which is even more necessary to China than the big ships.

These junks, ranging from 50 to 400 tons carry the bulk of the Chinese food and supplies from one eastern province to another.

Without them the entire coast would be thrown onto two north-south railroad lines which are inadequate for the job.

Only part of these railroads, the Peking-Mukden and Peking-Canton line and the Tientsin-Pukow line, were double-tracked when the Nationalists were forced from the mainland in 1949. The Communists are believed to have double-tracked more of the rail lines.

The sea is the only alternative to these railroads. There are neither highways nor north-south waterways to carry commerce.

To be effective a blockading power would have to use both surface ship and airpower to attack junks. The Nationalists were able to do this quite effectively in 1949 during their famed and controversial "port closure" campaign which lasted the better part of a year.

The Americans are confident they can do the job more easily.

One question mark is British Hong Kong.

Without stopping the flow of goods from Hong Kong into China via the short railroad from Kowloon to Canton or via the Pearl River from Hong Kong to Canton, a blockade would have great nuisance value but would not be decisive.

Town Leaves Atom Site

The last mail from the town post-office is collected in Ellenton, N.C., just before the place was wiped off the map to make way for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's giant hydrogen-bomb project. Two Vancouver men reported yesterday that Victoria's sea serpent, Cadborosaurus, made an appearance in English Bay last Saturday.

The pair, Reg Farmer and Bruce Mitchell said they decided reporting the incident twice as they feared they might be ridiculed.

They said they were fishing between Lionel and West Vancouver when, "Quite a lot 300 yards from their inboard motor boat" and stared at them with big, saucer-shaped eyes.

They described the monster as having a horse's head three feet in length, and being covered with brown hair.

EDMONTON, March 26 (CP) — R. H. Ansley (L.C.C.) Leduc today claimed that a secret purpose of the United Nations Organization is to destroy sovereignty.

Mr. Ansley, former Alberta minister of lands, who was 67 the cabinet to-day after a difference of opinion with the cabinet over government on Canada-Russia policy, spoke in the debate on the Throne Speech when the Budget and defence appropriation was being considered.

EDMONTON, March 26 (CP) — Provision of [illegible] for loans to Alberta [illegible] in Calgary and Edmonton [illegible] was [illegible] in the provincial legislature.

The bill, one of 10 pieces of money legislation introduced, enables municipalities to take advantage of the Federal Housing Act.

Another bill given first reading authorizes renewal for five years of the federal-provincial tax agreement.

Premier P. C. Manning said the new agreement includes no fundamental changes but does include a change in the method of computing the payment to Alberta.

Most important to Alberta, said Mr. Manning who also is provincial treasurer, is that the irreducible minimum payment is increased $7,000,000 to approximately $21,000,000.

A bill introduced by Mines Minister N. E. Tanner provides that a person owing both mineral and surface rights on land is given the right after selling the mineral rights to enter into a separate agreement covering surface compensation.

De Gaulle Says Balance Cannot Last

PARIS, March 26 (INS) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle warned tonight that the west must act "in the time of immediate danger" when existed he called the present East-West balance "cannot forever."

He said:

"Only God knows whether it will be possible to settle issues with Russia without war."

De Gaulle spoke to a group of [illegible] American editors who had visited Paris [illegible] De Gaulle [illegible] in the day.

De Gaulle was asked if he felt the United States had sent sufficient troops and materials to Europe. He replied:

Knitted Suits Still Popular

Knitted suits of boucle are still one of the most popular choices for spring wear and Victoria stores have a wide variety of color and styles to offer. Dusty pastels, lime green, winter white and beige lead in the color choices. [illegible] have their advantages.

The sock print although always a best seller is not seen as much this year. The smartest print as in the tie silks is in the cut.

Many of the coats tailored at the downtown shops that have the flattering rounded shoulder line and wide flaring back. Bouclés, nubby tweeds and nubs are numerous.

For summer wear real Irish linen as well as butcher linen, in [illegible] are the novelty pastels are being used a lot. Most of the cottons have been treated and are crease resistant.

[illegible] a sleeveless dress after a style of one of the [illegible] dresses [illegible] be as good [illegible] as the dress fitting. The peter-topped sun dress is still going to be a popular choice.

Broadly speaking, hats are small and pretty and so straighter on the head than they did last year. [illegible] of smooth straws in pastel tones, the brim with the shape perhaps a small change. Most of the hats are flower trimmed and [illegible] ribbon trimming as well.

Summer pastel clothes will be a joy to most women as there is offer a great variety of moves and [illegible]. Denim is the [illegible] for play clothes and the new pastels are a factory fresh. The old striped [illegible] and drab [illegible] Prima Jonquil [illegible] sleeveless blouses to accents bra and halter tops are [illegible] a few of the [illegible]

Romance is for one wishing to dress in the evening and after dark gowns this spring and summer. It is a filmy season with [illegible] marquisette nylon tulle and nylon net way out in front. Combined with lace it is used for many of this season's wedding gowns. Satin seems to be almost one of the favorite fabrics for evening and weddings.

[illegible] a season of [illegible] dresses [illegible] one of Victoria's better shops.

Accordion and [illegible] are crease resistant, washable and [illegible] wearing are being used in fashion. Many of the spring frocks. They are featured in plain colors and cute dots made into sleeveless frocks with tucked bodices and forever pleated skirts.

Vying with the nylon materials are the sharkings and [illegible] silk taffetas are also popular and many of the sharkings are taffeted. Silk sharks are in the fete and make many of these cute two-piece dresses so popular this spring. Silk organza and [illegible] paper taffetas are materials used in many of the better dresses. Many of the dresses have crinolines or taffeta skirt linings.

Styles this year, especially [illegible] are [illegible] and [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

Footloose, Fancy Free Women's Shoe Style

Footloose and fancy free [illegible] that's the [illegible] for spring footwear [illegible]

Keeping step with the feminine [illegible] the [illegible] completely [illegible] look of spring fashions [illegible] newest shoes are slim, more elegant and with a lace look.

Patent shines [illegible] the very new banded look, composed of three patent leather bands, the two upper straps geared at the ankle and a slim big bow beau[illegible] and frosted colors.

Mesh rises as a new start for the big moments. One lacey style is a lacy mesh done in two pale pastels with matching kid skin strappings . . . a light airy companion for dainty skirts and sweet dresses.

Lace [illegible] ornament a [illegible] fashion first in women's wear [illegible] repeated in a black alpaca [illegible] pump [illegible] the ankle strap balanced with a big jeweled ornament on the wide open toe. Dressy and flattering, this sling pump is wonderful with lacy after five little dresses.

Hitting its stride this year is the tapered toe, often shown with a squared back, which slants inward. Pretty shoes come in palest pastel kids . . . a pale blue beautiful with the new iridescent [illegible]

The [illegible] look [illegible] is [illegible] important trend for spring footwear. [illegible] high [illegible] of the past seasons, but a wide vamp band that [illegible] the [illegible] exposed [illegible] the entire design depending upon good [illegible] the [illegible] strap [illegible] of [illegible] shoes.

For [illegible] from the classic [illegible] to [illegible] top. All [illegible] in the [illegible] season's shoes [illegible] or [illegible] shoes [illegible] all again favored [illegible] more [illegible] and [illegible]

As [illegible] shoes are unlisted. From pale pastels to [illegible] colors [illegible] shantungs [illegible] gold [illegible] strips of [illegible] feeling [illegible] . . . fashion is putting its best foot forward this spring!

Casual and Comfortable Fashion in Men's Shoes

Keeping step with modern man's insistence on the casual . . . the comfortable . . . are the astute designers of men's footwear.

The moccasin, man's newest pet for comfort and wearability, [illegible] but [illegible] for its design.

Inhabitants of the Caspian [illegible] the [illegible] and to the [illegible] Their descendants [illegible] fashion . . . the Indians [illegible] Norwegians [illegible] adapted it. Though crude and functional as it was, this early day moccasin is in essence the same as today's.

Early American settlers adopted the Indian moccasin . . . but as a fashion, the moccasin came out of London, where it [illegible] been brought from Norway by an enthusiastic British [illegible]

From such devices as parfleches the moccasin [illegible] reached Palm Beach [illegible] as a [illegible] shoe. But in the past few years constructed on a regular shoe last, it has jumped to prominence as the correct wear for town or country.

As revolutionary a style as the high-button shoes of the early 1900's, the moccasin complete with tassels and wing tips is the forerunner of more and more formal shoes that are lace less, slip-on and comfortable. It is a style destined to grow in acceptance, thanks to its ease, comfort and the new trim look it wears in the spring of '52.

Brighter-Than-Navy Blues in All Fabrics

Blue is new . . . but it's a new blue! Brighter-than-navy is the newest star on the fashion horizon. Replacing last year's navy, this lighter, brighter blue is seen in all fabrics . . . from fleecy wools to tissue ginghams. It is the happy foundation for spring suits . . . dresses . . . coats . . . the same wearable, good-any-time quality is apparent in the new blue as in the old navy. From [illegible] bright blue . . . Peacock . . . the blue family plays a leading color role this spring.

To wear with the new blue, black patent is the most dramatic choice.

Second choice for spring: beige from light to toast. You'll see it in toppers, greatcoats . . . as a background for prints . . . and especially as a constant companion for white.

Prettiest color accessory: "mushroom" leather.

Still good, still pretty is the No. 3 color—grey. This year it is a pearly-light-toned grey, often cross-dyed with white for a "frosty" effect. Brief little jackets . . . ladylike, soft suits . . . matching sweaters and skirts . . . these are beautiful in frosted grey with almost the look of delicate, feathery cobwebs. Accessories may be "benedictine" a tawny leather, or black or navy.

Gaining prominence are the frosty tones and white, which promises to be fourth choice for color this spring. Tweeds, worsted suitings and shantungs all wear a "frosty" look. Perfect accompaniment for frosty tones—stark white. But the emphasis on the feminine this spring makes white a "must" for the smartest wardrobes. In sheer blouses, coats, suits and cotton dresses, white is dainty, fresh looking and impeccable.

There's a new pink this year, too. "Shocking" takes the place of pastel pink, mauve is good and a rosy-red replaces sharp red. Prettiest combination for color [illegible] pink and rosy-red with the brighter-than-navy blue.

Sixth place on the color chart—gold or yellow. Suits and coats favor yellow, often combined with light grey. Playclothes and evening wear are beautiful in gold, particularly when the fabric is interwoven with metallic gold thread. Newest swooping skirts for at-home wear are heavily accented with gold. Even some toppers and longer coats boast lovely gold embroidery as trim. For a dramatic accent with yellow or gold—startling black patent.

Lilac is in but the trend is to a mauve pink and a violet blue mauve. Cottons and silks, often iridescent, lend themselves to the mauve tones and are especially flattering to a bronzed skin. This color tone is very striking in play clothes and beachwear. Mauve is an excellent choice for the fragile blonde or the silver-haired beauty.

Last word in the color course . . . the always-good black, wonderful in anything, very fashionable in denim. (Incidentally, copper denim promises to make fashion news this spring).

The spring fashion parade is dramatic, completely feminine . . . but above all . . . colorful!

Enchanted Hat Designers In Love With Everything

Hat designers have been enchanted with springtime, too. They've fallen in love with everything . . . and milady will reciprocate this feeling when she sees the new spring styles. There's undoubtedly a conspiracy abroad in our land and it's object: prettier women!

There are rough straws to tilt over the pretty eye . . . or to wear sailing straight over a veritable sea of curls . . . flat discs in palest pastels to adorn poodle-cropped little heads . . . and veils, from rosy-pinks to midnight blacks with sequins . . . all flirtatious as a wink! But the sky's the limit as far as shapes in straws and felts are concerned. The flat, huge, cartwheel in natural straw, black or veil-trimmed in multi-colors is wonderful for the tall, slender-as-a-reed figure.

Skimmers . . . sailors . . . shallow bonnets . . . sidewise, large brims and the forward-thrust small hats are the basic hat fashions that are excitingly enhanced by gay flowers, sequin trimmed veiling and ribbon excitement for spring-into-summer, 1952.

The big impression of the entire millinery collections for the new season, is one of diversity and contrast to make up completely feminine, headline news.

Little hoods make their appearance in smooth and shiny straws . . . tiny calots make their bows in braid milans, tuscan straws take to fascinating shapes in clever little rollers—and so on, throughout the hat story.

White and pastel felts lend excitement and thrilling notes to beret pill-boxes, snug caps and cushioned sailors.

Pique, straw cloth, taffeta, sink and combinations of these fabrics are represented in youthful silhouettes dramatically highlighted with rich-looking trims.

A fascinating influx of beautifully woven and braided straws from foreign shores has invaded the millinery scene . . . with nubby straws, textured straws, lacquered and finely-sewn straws to make a dramatic impression on the millinery picture.

Pink and red roses, violets and leaves, and even tulips bloom brightly atop the smartest spring headgear.

Velvet accents . . . broad taffeta bandings . . . wide grosgrain crown brims and sparkling, jewel accents are well established on the pill-boxes, profile caps and sailors of the new season band-box collections.

Perching on poodle cuts, framing chignons or flattering, gay pony tails—there's a little bit of heaven in a hat for every feminine fancy.

Pick your jewelry pets with texture frosty, faceted, pebbly or crunchy!—Jewelry makes news with its "poodle" look, too!

Milady As Pretty As Possible Object of Spring's Fashions

Designers and coutourieres this spring all share in a single desire, and an admirable one, too . . . it's to make women as pretty as possible.

Look at the trick fashion played on milady in the twenties and the thirties. Both French and American designers presented a style lacking in grace and elegance.

The boyish figure was in vogue, the waistline hugged (with a singular lack of affection) a lady's hips and knobby or fat knees were painfully revealed. To heap coals upon this ridiculous figure, hat designers upon the poor girl's head, pulled it well down over her ears and eyes and announced, somewhat grimly, this was the fashion.

But the spring of this year fashion tells a different story. Designers love ladies and they're giving full rein to their passion by producing styles that are feminine . . . pretty . . . and with something of the dramatic elegance of the Gay Nineties.

The opening of a new fashion season embraces all the excitement . . . the hushed expectancy . . . and the thrilling wonder of the first night of a play opening.

The curtain goes up—and the spotlight is turned on the star of the opening—the spring dress!

An this season promises to delight the feminine audience and reward its highest expectations.

This spring your dress will swirl and billow with all the captivating grace of a prima ballerina. It presents you at your loviest . . . it dramatizes everything enchanting and utterly feminine about you.

There are many versions of this new full-skirted influence—the bell, standing out from a tiny waist, rippling all-round pleats, the hip-yoke fullness, and the Dior-inspired back-fullness.

And the understudy of this leading fashion—is the petticoat!

Fashion-wise women will be wearing them by the twos and threes! It's definitely a case of the more the merrier.

Petticoats wil rustle and swirl this spring, wherever smart women gather.

And, of course, with wide, wide skirts playing such an important role, waistlines must look tiny in contrast.

This is achieved through the slimming princess line . . . with Spencer jackets and the high-waisted Empire line.

The Empire influence adds even more flattery to the feminine figure with its artfully-placed tucks and gathers underscoring the bustline.

Summer Beach Styles In Tailoring or Frills

There are two distinctive styles for the newest beach attire . . . trim and tailored or dressy and frilled. Tailored suits are marked by shirtwaist styling . . . front buttoning . . . simulated belts . . . cuffing at the bustline or legs . . . the use of shirring low on a front panel. Their lines are fresh . . . sleek as a seal . . . destined to be tops with the girl who watched her lines through the winter.

Dressy suits take the plunge too. The princess line . . . with ruffles . . . with pleating and embroidery . . . is a new line for glamour.

Their skirts are flared over brief shorts. One flattering style has a halter apron over shorts . . . the apron of reversible navy linen-like rayon, one side red and white coin dots . . . the panties . . . mere whimsy in solid color.

The coachman's coat, cropped above bare knees is a special favorite when done in an allover white braid on pale blue satin-finished cotton. The bust is draped and pearl-buttoned. Underneath it all . . . a separate boned foundation.

Figure-flattering is the word for the latest in swim fashions. Realizing that the feminine form may not always be the form divine . . . designers have issued a spring edition of the "undercover story" which covers a lot of territory . . . it not only covers it . . . it disguises it!

Newest suits, regardless of fabrics or price, are elasticized to keep a firm hand on milady's lines. Some have an elasticized panel over the diaphragm . . . others a built-in tummy control which supports and flattens. The derriere is kept in line, too . . . short pants are also elasticized and separate . . . often tight as a strong-minded girdle.

Fashion upholds the bosom, too . . . there'll be no letting down here! One famous house offers their long line bra as a separate item to be buttoned into any one of their new swim suits. Other manufacturers feature bathing suits with wire bras . . . boning . . . shirred . . . always the control is there, keeping a lovely, smooth line. All that meets the eye is shapely, sleek and trim . . . an engineering masterpiece that would do justice to a suspension bridge!

New, too, is the slim sheath of elasticized cotton. Its white piping outlines the built-up shoulder straps which button on the shoulders. Attached trunks are same fabric in plain color, again brief as a summer romance.

On the sunny beaches . . . in the pools . . . sun-bathing on the patio . . . swimming in the cool green rivers . . . swim suits everywhere have an eye-appeal easily attributed to line . . . to hot and intense colors . . . to the imaginative use of elasticized cottons, prints, laces, Siamese prints . . . even silk is in the swim.

Newest swim suits are both practical and pretty. They lead a double life with the greatest of ease . . . wonderful swim suits turn out to be perfect for sunning . . . for games . . . for being lazy. Terry cloth is excellent for shorts, jackets, separate bras and capes.

Cotton suits feature little overskirts and neckline detail, with Tahitian prints best liked of the dark-toned cottons.

Over it all . . . a full, Mexican-inspired pique coat . . . linen-like cotton middies . . . or the inspired "three way threat" . . . a patterned terry crepe cape, hot coral dots on red with the hood lined in a plain color. The cape doubles as a skirt with a pouf or as a strapless sun dress.

And for the small figure . . . swim suits in junior sizes from 9 to 15, designed with the same attention to curve control as the larger sizes.

Look to the new styles . . . they'll make you an eye-full of beauty!

The cotton swim suit is here to stay . . . especially when it's dressed up with a matching skirt, stole or other addenda. Newest cottons for the surf are brighter, bolder and more cleverly designed than ever.

White linen promises to play an important role this spring, especially in dusters to wear with bright spring and summer dresses.

Mother, Daughter Go Alike

It's a likely story for mother and daughter this spring. For small girls are bound to "want one just like Mama's" when they see the latest . . . prettiest styles.

It's the year of the feminine . . . The nicest thing about spring . . . its special ever-new feeling . . . is captured with endearing charm in fashion for spring. Mother's dresses are full-skirted . . . tiny waisted . . . heightened with lingerie touches, velvet and flowers. Small daughter is part of the springtime mood too.

Just like mother's: the Directoire-influenced coat in gray flannel with deep pleats from the high back belt, shirred front yoke and bone buttons. The column coat, newer for big girls than the pyramid, is tops for tots in gray flannel with a narrow cut, pockets red piped with turn-back cuffs.

Mama's favorite—suits: the Spencer jacket with the full skirt does a repeat appearance for sister in navy wool with a high-rise skirt and stiff gay petticoat. The longer cardigan-type jackets are trimmed with gay braid . . . and there is one for brother too in matching colors.

Fabrics play no favorites . . . the young or the young-in-heart . . . all choose taffeta, plaid cottons, bright shantungs. Lilac chambray with lace-ruffled tucked yoke and puffed sleeves . . . old-fashioned as a country garden, comes in big and little sizes. Embroidered organdie and heavy embossed cottons fashion fancy things for young and old.

Casuals Are Best For Men

Casual wear, once the province of the country and suburban dweller, is now first choice with the city man, too.

Responsible for the swing to the comfortable, colorful clothes is the fact that more and more town men are commuting to their jobs in the city . . . meanwhile making their homes in the smaller suburban towns where life is lived at an easier, more relaxed pace.

Men's wear has kept in step with changing habits . . . and country clothes go to town this spring.

Tweeds, once associated with a loose, ill-fitting, baggy look, now are well-tailored, cut in a narrower line and neat as a blue serge. Tweed fabrics for spring are softer, with almost a cashmere look.

Newest jackets in tweed are those with vented backs and patch pockets, equally at home in town or country. Colors are rich with all shades of blue at the top of the list. Small patterns are also high in color.

Perfect companion for the tweed jacket—grey flannel slacks . . . the newer ones slimmer, with pleats much less in evidence.

Shirts, both sport and dress, are influenced by the demand for more casual dress. Many of the newest sport shirts button conventionally at the collar . . . with a bow tie they are designed for town wear. Other dressier shirts of Oxford cloth, patterned or in plain colors, are a good match for tweeds and flannels.

Continuing in the casual vein, accessories play an important role in this wardrobe as they do for more formal wear. Standard choice for wear with tweeds and flannel suits—soft, richly colored hats . . . Argyle socks (hand-knitted are tops), cashmere sweaters, long-sleeved or sleeveless . . . and gay, colorful shirts. For shoes, rough-grained leather ones that can take a good scuffing.

The casual look is right for spring in any section of the land. The smart man goes casual . . . at the same time he looks well-groomed and neat, comfortable and right for business or pleasure.

FASHION U.N.

Poodle Cut, Pony Tail Latest in Hair Styles

Hair stylists have obviously "been to the animal fair," for milady's newest coiffures are the "poodle cut" and the "pony-tail."

The poodle cut, with its short, brushed and curled look is responsible for the "disc" hat, which is nothing more nor less than a flat disc, which perches atop the curls.

To wear with the pony-tail hair style with its accent on the back of the head, is the spring bonnet. Bonnets are side-draped and practically backless.

CARBON BLUE SUIT TO BE MOST POPULAR FOR ALL OCCASIONS

This year the most popular suit will be blue, because it's right for all occasions, business, social or pleasure . . . we call it "Carbon Blue." This all-purpose color blends with all your accessories. So the next time you're down Yates Street way, drop into Cec Fletcher's, right next door to the Dominion Hotel, ask Jack, Dan, Clare or Cec to show you the new "Carbon Blue."

Pretty as a Picture

Little girl's dress with a quaint charm. Bright cotton; crisp, frothy ruffles, California-created. Little girls look like angels in this full pinafore, at right. Wide skirt with petticoat is featured.

Fashions in Miniature For Little Glamour Girls

Spring, 1952, will find the pretty-as-a-picture look in fashion also done in miniature! For little glamor girls are finding the season just as exciting, fashion-wise, as their mothers.

Tots to teenagers will look picturesque this spring with tiny, tight-fitting waistlines, full, full skirts and big sleeves. Paris hasn't overlooked the petite fille when it comes to the smart Victorian influence in fashion.

Little girls will let their gay, stiff petticoats peek provocatively from under their billowing skirts. Leading this fashion are the quilted cotton skirts done in reversible styles with a spirited print on one side and a contrasting plain color on the other. With their swirling skirts, they'll wear blouses with either perky, puffed or the sleeveless, bare-arm look.

Sweaters on the smaller scale will feature the same glamorous touches as those worn by style-conscious women for the new dressed-up details are high-lighting sweaters for girls of all ages. Touches of embroidery, shell, braid and glitter trims are dominating the sweater fashion scene. Baby turtle necks, sleeveless styles, dolman sleeves, and heraldic motifs are news in girls' sweaters.

Dressing up for Easter will be thrilling for the Sunday School set! The briefer-than-brief topper is a newsworthy fashion for girls and makes an adorable duo with the fuller skirt. These rib-length toppers are being featured in checks, pastel fleeces, wool suede, and poodle cloth. They feature push-up sleeves, wide cuffs, and shawl or mandarin collars.

Full-length spring coats are being shown in crisp ottoman and Benegaline in both the flattering Princess line and the pyramid coat. Girls' Easter suit will feature the swirling skirt with its own stiffened petticoat. Coats with detachable capelets are also starring in the fashion picture for spring. The Easter parade will see many of the new, nubby woolens, ricolored tweeds, as well as flannels and gabardines.

Young girls can give full sway to their love for color this spring. They can pick from a bouquet of pastels with lilac, crocus yellow, mint green, gay pinks, and shift blues the leading favorites.

Cottons will be more beloved than ever when little girls see the dresses for spring-into-summer! The most popular are broadcloths, tissue chambrays, soft plaid ginghams, and bright calico prints.

Fashion this year has truly captured the magic of springtime . . . forever new, forever fresh. There's a feeling of expectancy in the air . . . as though around the very next corner lies adventure and romance. Little ladies this year are dressed for the part . . . never prettier . . . never more feminine . . . as charming and delectable as a tintype in grandmother's attic!

Color Goes to Head In Dashing Array

Color goes to your head this spring in the most dashing array of shades you've ever seen. Brown, cocoa, mocha and toast-like toned straws are sparked with high-colored bands of paisley, shantung, India madras, batik, tartan and Indo print.

There's no dearth of selection this spring . . . for shapes are varied as the colors. It's for you to select the one that compliments your style and manner. There are telescope crowns with big pugs, milans with centre crease crowns, narrow brims and tapered crowns.

But the spotlight shines on the tyrolean shape. This season it's set off with a braided puggree . . . in color! Who could ask for a hat with more jaunty air?

And if the sailor straw is your favorite . . . it's back again and still going strong.

News for the outdoor man. Even the popular kept-styled cap has a new angle. For those who like the sun, there's the shallow, round crown with a short visor. For those who prefer the shade, there's the deep-crowned kept with an extended visor. And for casual wear, there's the tartan cotton cap.

Back in the fashion picture for men is the cap. Latest versions of this old favorite came in tweed, linen or cotton. The cap is light-weight, stays on the head easily and packs neatly for vacationists. Round-crown caps with generous-length visors dot the beaches as excellent sun-protectors.

Never have men's mats been designed in a greater variety of styles, nor a more imaginative parade of colors! There's one that was just made for you.

Men's Suits In Bold Accents

Color and fabric news are keynoted for bold accents in suits and coats for men this season. There are no radical departures in styling and tailoring details—instead, men's wear highlights novelty fabrics and colors. Texture is optional . . . smooth finishes and rough surfaces are parallel in importance.

Yes, this season you'll step out in color! For color runs the gamut in muted and medium tones with loads and loads of patterns to choose from.

Especially smart and brand new, are the brighter medium shades that have smoky or greyish overcasts. Pattern designs due for new-season popularity are multi-color checks, close-set pin stripes and tick weaves.

New Suits Delicately Full

Summer Cruise Fashions

A trio of cruise fashions that will star later in your summer wardrobe! Left: Sleeveless dress of puckered nylon that has its own little bolero. Centre: A half-size classic in linen-like rayon accented with drawn-work detail. Right: Pert chambray frock with touches of gay embroidery.

The fresh breeze blowing through the fashion world this spring is beautifully expressed in the newest suits . . . never have they been prettier . . . never have they suited a lady's charms so well.

Still worn over petticoats . . . still wide in silhouette . . . the newest skirts are flared with hardly a ripple in the hemline. Many have fullness in the front only . . . others have unpressed pleats.

The fullness is handled with [illegible] for the woman who likes its softness and flattering line, but does not want the junior-look of the whirling skirt.

In keeping with the dressy look of spring fashions, suits are more dressmaker in type . . . there are many soft details . . . embroidery . . . velvet insets . . . scrolls . . . and jeweled buttons.

Emphasis lies on the feminine curve even in tailored suits. The belled hipline, the result of padding or hidden stiffening, is still the most popular look for the short, tight packets.

Here the beloved Spencer stands out as the basis for the smartest suit wardrobes. But there are many styles to choose from . . . jackets with narrow self belts, box shapes, jackets long enough to double as a short coat, and boleros. The right skirt for each suit seems to depend on the length of the jacket . . . the shorter the jacket, the wider the skirt.

Necklines hug milady's throat . . . some, with small collars, others tight-fitting and high with no collar . . . the perfect background for pretty jewels or a small light fur.

The spring suit story is told in grey, light and dark flannel, fine pinchecks, fine stripes . . . some from France, some from Britain . . . with chocolate brown introduced for some silk suits.

For the first time, navy is forced to take a back seat in the fashion parade. The brighter-than-navy blue appears often for both wool and silk suits. Strangely enough, the long-time favorite gabardine has lost its top place in the suit family and is, this spring, something of a stepchild.

The pretty, dressy suit is beautifully showcased in silk. The accent is on tailored lines that are dressed up with embroidery, either in simple chalk beads on a small collar or more extravagantly, crystal and pearls are encrusted on small revers. Organdie touches highlight the dainty look . . . either in organdy collars or in the snowy fall of a soft gilet.

Taffeta . . . the iridescent shantungs . . . slubbed silks . . . pure silks, soft as a butterfly's wings . . . all are lovely for the dressy silk suit. Many are lined with rustling taffeta to give a buoyant look to skirts.

But the suit-able look for spring is the right look for the fashion-conscious woman. Dressy . . . dainty . . . slim and tailored . . . one of the newest suits is sure to make you look your loveliest this spring.

FOR YOUR CHOICE

There are two basic style categories in men's neckwear, bows and four-in-hands. But within these two categories there are as many as fifty different styles. Average length of a tie is from 47 to 54 inches.

Costume Look

The costume look shows black Moygashel linen coat, lined in emerald green taffeta, can double as dress. Key-printed imported silk print dress is black and green or white.

Popular Coat Type

Loose-fitting coat is highlighted by twin capelets at the shoulder-line. Wide box pleats in back simulate a panel. Maroon, red and white plaid.

Make-Up Variety Stressed

Basic clothes that can be [illegible] long been advocated by fashion experts. The same holds true for a cosmetic wardrobe which should contain both creams and make-up essential to a lovely complexion and well-groomed look the year 'round.

And what makes up a basic cosmetic wardrobe? Mary Stuyvesant, beauty advisor, suggests the following items, explaining the purpose and value of each.

First, creams, and there are three types which have really proved their worth to women over the years. These are creams for cleansing, creams for softening and lubrication, and foundation creams.

Then there is make-up and the three essential items in this group are face powder, lipstick, and rouge. All should harmonize with each other, with the natural coloring and with clothing colors.

Face powder is meant primarily to give a flattering effect to skin. Today, there are three types of powder make-up from which to choose: loose powder cake, all-in-one foundation and powder.

Other beauty aids include two items which cannot really be classified with creams and make-up but should supplement any cosmetic wardrobe. These are skin freshener for toning the skin and facial tissues for removing creams and excess make-up.

FROM "OVER THERE"

There's a continental influence to be seen in new spring fashions. Italy offers spirit and color. Spain offers exotic trims and shapes. France offers a chic overall effect that can be found in fashions of every season and every year.

Breath-of-Spring Mink

Beautifully interpreted design in a wrap that will play an important role in your wardrobe for spring, 1952! A softly-rounded jacket with elbow-length sleeves in the lovely, new light-toned mink.

Rough Fabrics For Contrast Style Keynote

Though spring wears a dainty look, mild as a new lamb, and the accent is on the feminine . . . it is interpreted in a series of rough fabrics.

Suits and toppers appear in the fashion picture with a new "slubbed" look . . . which means they are ribbed or cross-dyed. Wool is especially good when ribbed and turns up often in suiting worsteds. Even silks are handled roughly . . . the ribbed, heavy silks an excellent choice for the long, flowing coats.

The poodle influence extends even to suiting, though here it is generally combined with a plain fabric. But this is the year of the curly, loopy, deep-textured look . . . the poodle with a spring hair-cut! Little toppers . . . brief hug-me-tights . . . full great-coats fashioned of the clipped poodle are newer than first love.

When interwoven with white, clipped poodle becomes a frosted fabric. Nothing is smarter . . . nothing prettier than spring's frosted look . . . enchanting as icing on a birthday cake. The frosty look also lends new glamour to other fabrics besides wool . . . silk, cottons, crepes and linens are all dusted with white magic.

As a stand-out for the full silhouette, spring fabrics are crisp and staccato, never slick or sliding. Taffeta, sharp and rustling, remains high on the fashion ladder. No other material keeps a profile so bouffant and graceful as taffeta. Skirts . . . dresses . . . and taffeta coats are the very shape for spring.

Lustrous, flattering silk shantung assumes as many colors as Joseph's coat this season. Shining examples are the iridescent shantungs, beautifully tinted . . . a single hue the basis for a fabulous fiesta of color. Here, too, the "slubbed" texture dominates even to the sheerest silks. Shantung is perfect for the pretty dress-up dress . . . the graceful, umbrella-wide skirts . . . the dainty shirtwaist. Wonderful, too, for evening wear, particularly good when touched with gold.

The spring story is well told in print. But for a different version, these new prints are usually done on textured fabrics such as shantung, surah or crisp taffetas. Classic polka dots give way to odd and scattered dots . . . white grounds . . . exotic Siamese patterns. Stripes are here to stay and taffeta, their natural habitat.

From Paris comes word that lace makes fashion headlines as a spring fabric. Not only is it a lovely choice for the filmiest evening gowns and stoles, it is also beautiful in new wool lace —when graced with touches of linen. Cotton lace appears often in the smartest daytime costumes. Spring gloves in lace keep company with the alluring feminine look of spring.

Cottons have a head start on spring, for this year they look anything but cottony. It's very likely they may be your first spring dress or suit, for they come in tweedy weaves . . . calico and dimity quilted patterns . . . sculptured piques. Biggest cotton sheer promises to be tissue chambray.

And linen . . . from imported to the linen weaves, in cotton, rayon, nylon and orlon. Whichever you choose, it's fashion right if it's linen! In the new bisque shade, highlighted with black patent, it's downright witchcraft!

In silken accents, the texture story is finished. There are more pure silks now than ever before . . . silk taffetas, shantungs . . . silk surahs . . . silk pongee prints . . . silk sheer organdies. Soft, flattering, always adaptable, silk is the mainspring of the spring wardrobe. Like puppy love . . . the first jonquil . . . the first robin . . . silk goes with spring!

Orchid Accessories

Soft-shaded orchid pins and earrings are part of romantic collection of spring jewelry. They enhance a petal ascot of shadow-stripe organdy.

At-Home Fashions Flash With Color

At-home fashions, designed for TV parties, patio entertaining or simply for lounging about the house, whirl out for spring in color-drenched skirts meant to be fluffed out by layers of pretty petticoats beneath.

Adapted from the past season's fashions are billowy quilted skirts. These are presented in cottons and rayons, in gay solid tones and small provincial-type prints. They are most effective when combined with contrasting bright color or black jersey tops, designed in a sleeveless, scoop neck manner or with a turtle neck and long or short sleeves.

Also effective, when teamed with contrasting scoop neck or turtle neck jersey tops, are the whirling skirts that feature a vari-colored patchwork effect print.

Novel in appearance are the new skirts printed to simulate all-over lace embroidery. Often, this type of skirt also has a simulated fringe border that lends a sham apron effect to the skirt.

For dress-up at home, and even for parties and other gala occasions away from home, there are full, full skirts of satin or gold-accented organdy. These look best when paired with simple tops, or, for a more elaborate outlook, with a crushed cummerbund in the fabric of the organdy trim or the top.

Also on hand for spring at home are street-length duster-type coats. Newest versions of this popular style offer exciting fashion news when detailed with saucer button asymmetrical closings. They may be designed of crisp novelty printed fabrics such as a white or pastel ground cloque overprinted with widely spaced gold dots, or a gold printed cotton.

WAIST NIPPERS

Pert little waist cinchers are now available to help make a tiny waist a miniature of itself. Often made of rayon satin, waist cinchers hook or lace about the waist to ease away the inches gently but firmly. A daily dunking in mild suds keeps it fresh and firm for continued wearing.

Fur Fashions Blond, Brief

It's a blonde, brief spring for fur fashions. With light tones, featured in every fur from muskrat and rabbit to mink. And a huge variety of small furs is on hand, to complement the slim, long torsos and full, full skirts of the season, as well as the many collarless necklines.

Sheared raccoon, in a lighter weight, beaver, squirrel and even fox or some of the other furs are featured in new blonde and lighter than ever tones.

By being waist-length or above the waist is the manner in which small furs attain even smaller proportions for spring. They can be seen as boleros, tiny jackets and capelets. One designer transforms a short stole into a short bolero by wrapping the ends and fastening them with hooks and eyes.

The extra small designs, to accent collarless necklines, can be had as pull-through ascots, narrow boas, one and two-skin scarfs or chokers and circlets.

HEARING-AID FASHIONS

Our latest model hearing-aids are very small and light, which makes them easy to wear. No longer is it necessary to wear cumbersome separate batteries connected to a large instrument. The new hearing-aids have tiny self-contained batteries.

If you are hard-of-hearing, come in and try one of our latest models without obligation.
